Campaign Plans Set

Eastern City Votes Eyed By Johnson, Goldwater

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater appear to be preparing to make the Eastern industrial states a prime battleground in the election campaign.

Johnson signaled his intentions with Wednesday's selection by the Democratic arrangements committee—at the President's suggestion—of liberal Sen. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island as keynoter for the party's Atlantic City, N.J., convention which opens Aug. 24.

Goldwater told a news conference in announcing that Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania will be host at a GOP summit conference at Hershey, Pa., next month that he intends to campaign in the northeastern states.

"I don't buy the argument that we don't have potential power in New York State," he said.

SEN. JOHN PASTORE

Johnson's choice of Pastore, an exponent of the administration's advocacy of civil rights and social welfare legislation, to state the party's case seemed likely to jolt further the support for the President in the South.

The arrangements committee countered this by naming Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia, who has predicted the Johnson ticket will carry his state, as chairman of the convention rules committee. This put a Southerner in a key spot.

Pastore, who worked closely with Johnson when the latter was Democratic leader of the Senate, summed up his position this way: "I see eye-to-eye with the President on his program."

Goldwater's choice of Ohio State Chairman Ray Bliss and former national party chairman Leonard W. Hall, a New Yorker, as members of a steering committee that will map strategy brought two veterans of industrial state politicking near the top of his campaign organization.

Sen. Engle, 52, Claimed After Illness

Reports Say Brown May Pick Salinger To Fill Vacant Seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., forced by illness to abandon a fight for re-election, died early today at his home here. He was 52.

There was speculation that Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California would name former White House press secretary Pierre Salinger to fill out the remainder of Engle's term.

Salinger won a hot primary battle from State Controller Alan Cranston last June 2 for Democratic nomination to the Senate.

Despite a brain operation last summer, Engle had announced plans to run for re-election early this year.

But he withdrew following a dramatic episode in the Senate April 13 in which he tried to introduce a resolution and couldn't speak.

Aides privately had arranged for Sen. Spessard Holland, D-Fla., making a prolonged speech on the civil rights bill, to yield to Engle for the resolution.

Engle arose to his feet, assisted by two aides, stood silently for an agonizing minute and could utter only one audible sound — "A. . ."

Facing a second brain operation April 24, Engle dropped his plans to try for a second term in the Senate.

He had been opposed in the primary by both Salinger and Cranston and nine others. Many of his former supporters had contended he was unable to campaign and carry out his Senate duties.

The senator had been bedridden since his second brain operation in April.

But he came to the Senate in

The day after John F. Kennedy squeaked through to victory in the 1960 elections his brother and campaign manager, Robert F. Kennedy, said it couldn't have happened if Vice President Richard M. Nixon hadn't agreed to those four debates on nationwide television and radio.

The next day President-elect Kennedy said the same thing.

A few months later the delegates to the Republican National Convention in 1960 were polled by the Indianapolis News which asked what they thought had caused Nixon's defeat. The consensus of 780 of the 1,331 delegates was that the big mistake was Nixon's debates with Kennedy.

Much later President Kennedy said he would debate his Republican opponent in 1964. But by then Kennedy had enormously built up his popular support. President Johnson, in office only a little more than eight months, is still trying to build up his.

Victim Identifies Man In Gas Station Holdup

BEAVER — The Chippewa Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police said the operator of the Mount Esso service station on Route 18 has identified a suspect in the Beaver County Jail as one of two holdup men who got $300 in a robbery at the station July 22.

Donald C. Mount, owner, identified Roy Anthony Kelly, 25, of New York City, who with a companion entered the station just as he was closing, pulled a .32-caliber gun and cleaned out the cash drawer.

State police said Kelly, alias Dennis St. John, probably will also be charged with larceny of a motor vehicle as the pair took a car from a parking lot near the gas station before the robbery. Kelly is one of four men arrested a week ago on suspicion and since then they have been linked to a number of crimes in the east, with extradition planned.

Fight In Senate Looms On Social Security Bill

Senate Puts Defense 1st For Budget

Russell Declares Nation Must Not Be Second In Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has heeded Sen. Richard B. Russell's warning that "we can't afford to be second best" and voted unanimously to spend more than $46 billion for defense.

The 76-0 approval Wednesday night of the biggest money bill of the fiscal year — $46,774,401,000 — sends the appropriation to the House, which earlier voted some $15 million less. After the House acts, a committee of both chambers will arrange a compromise figure.

The Senate amount is $1.4 billion less than Congress forked over to the Pentagon last year and more than $696 million below President Johnson's initial budget requests.

The unanimous vote is misleading in a sense. Debate was angry at times and Russell, floor manager for the bill, had to fight off efforts to cut the amount and to protect government shipyards. After nine hours the veteran Georgia Democrat had his way — on every test.

Russell claimed huge multi-billion-dollar outlays for manpower, missiles, submarines and other expensive military hardware must continue for the foreseeable future.

Most of the dispute centered on efforts of Navy yard supporters to get a large share of nearly $2 billion in the bill to construct, repair and convert the Navy's fleet of existing and new ships.

As part of an economy effort, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has shut down large numbers of military bases and establishments. Now he is looking over government owned and operated ship yards.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., tried to tack on the bill a rider to prevent a shutdown of any yards unless appropriate congressional committees got advance notice and agreed.

Opponents argued this was an attempt at a congressional veto on executive decisions. It was shouted down on a voice vote.

Negro Chiefs Seek Postponement For All Demonstrations

NEW YORK (AP) — Civil rights leaders in some cities express reservations about a call by Negro leaders for an end to most, if not all, mass demonstrations in the nation until after election day.

The national leaders were critical of what they called the "states rights platform" adopted by the Republican convention that nominated Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater for president.

Their statement, issued Wednesday night after a "summit meeting," said: "We believe that racism has been injected into the campaign by the Goldwater forces."

Urging a shift in tactics, they called for "a broad curtailment, if not total moratorium, of all mass marches, mass picketing and mass demonstrations until after election day" and more emphasis on getting more Negroes registered to vote.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, took pains to make it clear that the "summit" statement should not be interpreted as an endorsement of President Johnson's candidacy.

He also said in answer to a question that the action had not been taken in order to reduce the so-called "white backlash," described as the resentment of whites reacting to mass demonstrations by Negroes.

A spot check by The Associated Press indicated that several civil rights leaders on the local level intend to go ahead with demonstrations when they feel they are required to get results.

House Cuts Health Care In Proposal

Amendments Eyed To Restore Version Of Hospital Benefit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-passed bill to increase Social Security benefits headed today into a Senate fight to add to it controversial health care provisions.

The House passed the measure Wednesday, 288 to 8, without the hospitalization features for which President Johnson and the late President John F. Kennedy had pleaded.

The measure as it stands would give a 5 per cent raise to the 20 million Social Security retirees and admit more than half a million more persons to the rolls.

A retired worker now getting $40 monthly would get $42, one now getting $105 would get $110.30 and one now getting $127 would get $143.40.

A man and his wife now getting $60 would get $63, a couple getting $157.50 would get $175.50 and a couple now getting $190.50 would get $200.10.

Senate supporters of the administration plan, however, were already at work on amendments to write into the measure a cut-down version of the hospitalization proposal, possibly as a voluntary option for some or all of the cash increases provided.

The proposals have not been put in final form. Similar moves earlier this year by the House supporters were abandoned in the face of certain defeat by the Ways and Means Committee.

Negotiators In Brick Pact See Progress

Some progress has been made in negotiations between members of the United Brick & Clay Workers Union (AFL-CIO) and officials of the H. K. Porter Co., Refractories Division plants in the area.

The negotiations are being held at the Travelers Hotel. In a joint statement issued late this morning by the union and firm, it was pointed out "The parties are continuing to meet at the hotel and plan to remain in session until an agreement is reached or negotiations break down completely.

"Some progress was made yesterday and both parties are confident an agreement can be reached without interruption of operations."

P. P. Popovich, international representative for the Brick & Clay Workers, is heading the negotiating team representing the five locals involved.

Involved are the two McLain Fire Brick Division plants at Wellsville, and plants at Irondale, New Salisbury, Vanport and Clarion.

The union negotiating team includes Raymond Patton for the Colonial Works at New Salisbury, Kenneth Leedy for the Irondale Works, Robert Hall for the Buckeye Works at Wellsville, Vincent Salvadori for the Clarion Works and George Crowe for the construction and maintenance workers.

The company team includes Lloyd Jenkins, labor relations

Victim Identifies Man In Gas Station Holdup

BEAVER — The Chippewa Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police said the operator of the Mount Esso service station on Route 18 has identified a suspect in the Beaver County Jail as one of two holdup men who got $300 in a robbery at the station July 22.

Donald C. Mount, owner, identified Roy Anthony Kelly, 25, of New York City, who with a companion entered the station just as he was closing, pulled a .32-caliber gun and cleaned out the cash drawer.

State police said Kelly, alias Dennis St. John, probably will also be charged with larceny of a motor vehicle as the pair took a car from a parking lot near the gas station before the robbery. Kelly is one of four men arrested a week ago on suspicion and since then they have been linked to a number of crimes in the east, with extradition planned.

to meet stiff opposition and might block final passage of the bill this year, especially since Congress is driving to adjourn before the Democratic National Convention begins Aug. 24.

As passed by the House, the bill would increase Social Security payments about $925 million annually by setting a new scale of $42 to $133.40 for a single worker, up to $281.20 for a family with dependent children. The maximums would go up in future years, as high as $300 for a family.

The bill also would step up the Social Security tax paid by employers and employes, in part by increasing from $4,800 to $5,400 the wage base on which they are levied. The increase would amount to $31.20 each next year.

The bills would also add about 600,000 aged persons to the beneficiary rolls by relaxing coverage requirements for the benefit of persons, mostly widows, 72 and older.

It would also extend children's benefits to age 22 for surviving children who continue their education and would bring under Social Security coverage self-employed doctors of medicine and internes.

He upped the odds from 50-50 Wednesday after a minor trajectory adjustment 100,000 miles out in space aimed Ranger 7 at a 50-by-300-mile area in the Sea of Clouds, just southwest of the center of the moon.

Ranger 7 now is cruising while scientists determine whether one final correction must be made before the spacecraft plunges into the moon at 5,800 miles an hour.

Its six cameras, peering out a hole in the side of its cone-shaped body, must be pointed straight down when they begin snapping 4,000 pictures in the final 13 minutes of flight.

Pickering said the Sea of Clouds was chosen as a target because it is in the half of the moon that will be lighted by the sun at time of impact.

This declaration, supposed to have been a charter for action for the world Communist movement, is one of the key points in the dispute. Both the Chinese and the Russians claim to have been faithful to it and accuse each other of violating it.

Presumably Red China was to be one of the 26 invited, along with all other Communist parties now ruling in their own nations and leaders of the big parties in Italy, France, Japan and Indonesia.

Basically, the Red Chinese oppose the current policies of Premier Khrushchev which envision peaceful coexistence as providing time for the Soviet Union to develop economically as a prelude to spreading communism around the world. The Chinese demand more-aggressive policies.

The broadcast said Communist China persists in its "stand for an international meeting of the fraternal parties for unity on the basis of Marxism-Leninism to be held after ample preparation."

in Harlem in spite of what Wilkins says."

The summit statement was signed by Wilkins, Dr. Martin Luther King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Whitney M. Young, executive director of the National Urban League; and A. Philip Randolph, chairman of the Negro American Labor Council.

The statement described the Republican national platform as a "states rights" platform authored by "the Goldwater forces."

"The senator himself," the statement said, "maintains his position that civil rights matters should be left to the states—clear enough language for any Negro American."

CORE Leaders Plan Meeting At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Congress of Racial Equality, ignoring criticism from many civil rights leaders in other organizations, went ahead today with plans for a meeting at City Hall to protest alleged police brutality.

Miss Ruth Turner, executive secretary of the Cleveland CORE chapter, when told that a group of civil rights leaders at a "summit conference" in New York had called for curtailment of demonstrations, denied that the City Hall meeting would be a demonstration.

The CORE delegates were to meet on the City Hall steps before attenting an afternoon Council session which will consider a proposal to expand the police force.

Indications were there would be no placards and no picketing.

Miss Turner said the statement issued by Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, "will not alter our plans." She added that "we are committed to our local members on the meeting."

Wilkins' statement urged broad curtailment of demonstrations until after the Nov. 3 elections and said Negroes should work to step up voter registration and other political activity.

Clarence H. Holmes, head of the Cleveland chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, lauded the statement and said "We have been formulating a local policy on our own consistent with the national policy, including the matter of voter registration."

Holmes was among civil rights leaders criticizing CORE for its plan to meet at City Hall. He agreed with the charge that police brutality exists and said the NAACP had made similar charges, but he added that the rights group "can see no present benefit to be received from a demonstration at this time in the council chambers."

Mayor Ralph S. Locher says allegations of police brutality have been investigated by police and by the FBI and have been found to be without basis.

Rancher Claims New Foul Bred: Chick-Sant

The result: the "Mongolian chick-sant."

"I've never heard of such a thing," Edio Delfino, El Dorado County agricultural commissioner, said when told of the mating.

Paul Bush, 38, a linoleum layer who lives on a 132-acre fowl ranch, said he tried for a year before he got a Mongolian ringneck pheasant to mate with a certain red hen.

Alan Due More Sleep Under Another Name

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Alan Golan is looking forward to sleeping better, without nocturnal phone calls for the first time in months.

He went to court Wednesday as Allan Z. Goldberg and obtained permission to change his name.

A man named Allan Goldberg is a bail bondsman who is frequently called at odds hours to post bond for persons under arrest — but callers frequently mixed up the phone numbers.

Rural Resident Finds City's Air Too Visible

BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP) — He had spent only one day in the country but John Bockey told his host he was ready to return to noise and exhaust fumes.

"Don't you like all this fresh air?" he was asked.

"Oh, I guess it's okay," Bockey replied, "but I like to see what I'm breathing."

No, Says Expert

Is Modern Life Hurting Pleasure Of U.S. Dogs?

Not on your life, says dog expert Alfred Dick, the new executive vice president of the American Kennel Club.

"I think dogs are becoming more meaningful, more useful, more necessary for their companionship, the joy that can be anyone's who has a dog," he said.

Isn't space becoming a problem?

"You have to live in New York to see how valuable dogs are to people who live in small apartments. I have seen the biggest kind of dog come out of the smallest places," he said.

Dick spoke on modern dogdom in an interview Wednesday night at the second annual conference of the Professional Handlers Association. It was a gathering of dog owners, handlers, show judges, and association members from 13 states and the District of Columbia.

"It has too long been said that to have a dog you should live in the country," said Dick.

"Dogs thrive in cities. Every dog I see in the streets of New York is happy. They must have a place in the lives of the people who own them. They have to walk them before work and in the evening, and that takes a lot of doing.

Dr. Frank R. Booth, a veterinarian from Elkhart, Ind., offered these statistics:

There are 25 million dogs in the United States. This country produces five billion tons of dog food a year. It takes 170,000 tons of steel to package only the canned dog food.

Dog foods outsell baby foods and breakfast cereals combined.

Engle

Engle's wife, Lucretia, and a physician were with him when he died early this morning.

The body will be taken to his home in Red Bluff, Calif., for burial. Other funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Doctors said the second operation was "a craniotomy performed to relieve pressure."

The first operation last August came after tests to diagnose the cause of painful cramps in Engle's right arm and leg. Dr. Roy L. Sexton, Engle's personal physician, said that a small amount of brain tissue was removed and that it was not malignant.

A member of Congress for 20 years, Engle served eight successive terms in the House of Representatives before his election to the Senate in 1958.

Throughout his congressional career, Engle was identified primarily with water resource development in California and the West.

In the Senate, Engle was a member of Armed Services and Commerce committees and the special committees on small business and the problems of the aging.

Born in Bakersfield, Calif., Sept. 21, 1911, Engle was graduated from Chico State College and obtained a law degree from the Hastings College of Law, University of California, in 1933.

Engle's political career began in 1934 with his election as district attorney of Tehama County. In 1942 he was elected to the California State Senate and in August 1943 was elected to fill the seat in the U.S. House left vacant by the death of Rep. Harry Englebright.

Engle's home is in Red Bluff, Calif. He was married to the former Lucretia Caldwell of San Jose, Calif., and had one daughter by a previous marriage, Yvonne Engle Childs.

Judges Rule Insanity In Murder Of Father

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Elvert Shaw, 54, has been ordered returned to Lima State Hospital by a three-judge panel which found him innocent by reason of insanity in the hammer slaying of his elderly father.

Shaw was acquitted Wednesday after two psychiatrists testified that the defendant could not determine right from wrong at the time of the slaying.

Shaw, of Spring Valley, was released from the Lima hospital 45 days ago to stand trial on a first-degree murder charge. He had been sent to the hospital after his father was slain at their Spring Valley home in 1958.

Japanese Unopposed To U.S. On Ryukyus

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Hayato Ikeda told the new U.S. high commissioner to the Ryukyu Islands today that Japan has no objection to U.S. military bases on Okinawa because they "are an important element in maintaining world peace."

But both Ikeda and Foreign Minister Etsusaburu Shiina stressed to Lt. Gen. Albert Watson II that Japan feels the United States should grant the Okinawans more autonomy in civil affairs.

Australians Angered By Meat Import Curb

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia has sent a stiff note to the U.S. government on the Senate's approval of legislation repudiating the Australian-American meat agreement.

Informed sources said the note pointed out that cancellation of the agreement would have a potentially serious effect on relations between the United States and Australia.

The legislation, which now is awaiting action by the House of Representatives, would reduce quotas on imports of beef and other meats to counter a decline in prices of domestic products.

CORE Leaders Plan Meeting At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Congress of Racial Equality, ignoring criticism from many civil rights leaders in other organizations, went ahead today with plans for a meeting at City Hall to protest alleged police brutality.

Miss Ruth Turner, executive secretary of the Cleveland CORE chapter, when told that a group of civil rights leaders at a "summit conference" in New York had called for curtailment of demonstrations, denied that the City Hall meeting would be a demonstration.

The CORE delegates were to meet on the City Hall steps before attenting an afternoon Council session which will consider a proposal to expand the police force.

Indications were there would be no placards and no picketing.

Miss Turner said the statement issued by Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, "will not alter our plans." She added that "we are committed to our local members on the meeting."

Wilkins' statement urged broad curtailment of demonstrations until after the Nov. 3 elections and said Negroes should work to step up voter registration and other political activity.

Clarence H. Holmes, head of the Cleveland chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, lauded the statement and said "We have been formulating a local policy on our own consistent with the national policy, including the matter of voter registration."

Holmes was among civil rights leaders criticizing CORE for its plan to meet at City Hall. He agreed with the charge that police brutality exists and said the NAACP had made similar charges, but he added that the rights group "can see no present benefit to be received from a demonstration at this time in the council chambers."

Mayor Ralph S. Locher says allegations of police brutality have been investigated by police and by the FBI and have been found to be without basis.

Rancher Claims New Foul Bred: Chick-Sant

The result: the "Mongolian chick-sant."

"I've never heard of such a thing," Edio Delfino, El Dorado County agricultural commissioner, said when told of the mating.

Paul Bush, 38, a linoleum layer who lives on a 132-acre fowl ranch, said he tried for a year before he got a Mongolian ringneck pheasant to mate with a certain red hen.

Alan Due More Sleep Under Another Name

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Alan Golan is looking forward to sleeping better, without nocturnal phone calls for the first time in months.

He went to court Wednesday as Allan Z. Goldberg and obtained permission to change his name.

A man named Allan Goldberg is a bail bondsman who is frequently called at odds hours to post bond for persons under arrest — but callers frequently mixed up the phone numbers.

Rural Resident Finds City's Air Too Visible

BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP) — He had spent only one day in the country but John Bockey told his host he was ready to return to noise and exhaust fumes.

"Don't you like all this fresh air?" he was asked.

Is Modern Life Hurting Pleasure Of U.S. Dogs?

Not on your life, says dog expert Alfred Dick, the new executive vice president of the American Kennel Club.

"I think dogs are becoming more meaningful, more useful, more necessary for their companionship, the joy that can be anyone's who has a dog," he said.

Isn't space becoming a problem?

"You have to live in New York to see how valuable dogs are to people who live in small apartments. I have seen the biggest kind of dog come out of the smallest places," he said.

Dick spoke on modern dogdom in an interview Wednesday night at the second annual conference of the Professional Handlers Association. It was a gathering of dog owners, handlers, show judges, and association members from 13 states and the District of Columbia.

"It has too long been said that to have a dog you should live in the country," said Dick.

"Dogs thrive in cities. Every dog I see in the streets of New York is happy. They must have a place in the lives of the people who own them. They have to walk them before work and in the evening, and that takes a lot of doing.

Dr. Frank R. Booth, a veterinarian from Elkhart, Ind., offered these statistics:

There are 25 million dogs in the United States. This country produces five billion tons of dog food a year. It takes 170,000 tons of steel to package only the canned dog food.

Dog foods outsell baby foods and breakfast cereals combined.

Engle

a wheel chair last June to cast his vote in favor of the civil rights bill.

Engle's wife, Lucretia, and a physician were with him when he died early this morning.

The body will be taken to his home in Red Bluff, Calif., for burial. Other funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Doctors said the second operation was "a craniotomy performed to relieve pressure."

The first operation last August came after tests to diagnose the cause of painful cramps in Engle's right arm and leg. Dr. Roy L. Sexton, Engle's personal physician, said that a small amount of brain tissue was removed and that it was not malignant.

A member of Congress for 20 years, Engle served eight successive terms in the House of Representatives before his election to the Senate in 1958.

Throughout his congressional career, Engle was identified primarily with water resource development in California and the West.

In the Senate, Engle was a member of Armed Services and Commerce committees and the special committees on small business and the problems of the aging.

Born in Bakersfield, Calif., Sept. 21, 1911, Engle was graduated from Chico State College and obtained a law degree from the Hastings College of Law, University of California, in 1933.

Engle's political career began in 1934 with his election as district attorney of Tehama County. In 1942 he was elected to the California State Senate and in August 1943 was elected to fill the seat in the U.S. House left vacant by the death of Rep. Harry Englebright.

Engle's home is in Red Bluff, Calif. He was married to the former Lucretia Caldwell of San Jose, Calif., and had one daughter by a previous marriage, Yvonne Engle Childs.

Judges Rule Insanity In Murder Of Father

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Elvert Shaw, 54, has been ordered returned to Lima State Hospital by a three-judge panel which found him innocent by reason of insanity in the hammer slaying of his elderly father.

Shaw was acquitted Wednesday after two psychiatrists testified that the defendant could not determine right from wrong at the time of the slaying.

Shaw, of Spring Valley, was released from the Lima hospital 45 days ago to stand trial on a first-degree murder charge. He had been sent to the hospital after his father was slain at their Spring Valley home in 1958.

Japanese Unopposed To U.S. On Ryukyus

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Hayato Ikeda told the new U.S. high commissioner to the Ryukyu Islands today that Japan has no objection to U.S. military bases on Okinawa because they "are an important element in maintaining world peace."

But both Ikeda and Foreign Minister Etsusaburu Shiina stressed to Lt. Gen. Albert Watson II that Japan feels the United States should grant the Okinawans more autonomy in civil affairs.

Australians Angered By Meat Import Curb

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia has sent a stiff note to the U.S. government on the Senate's approval of legislation repudiating the Australian-American meat agreement.

Informed sources said the note pointed out that cancellation of the agreement would have a potentially serious effect on relations between the United States and Australia.

The legislation, which now is awaiting action by the House of Representatives, would reduce quotas on imports of beef and other meats to counter a decline in prices of domestic products.

The Tale Of The Cities

The population ranking of Ohio cities according to population inside outdated municipal boundaries is a threadbare statistical monstrosity.

Nevertheless, the Ohio Department of Development has submitted a new list based on estimates as of last Jan. 1. It ranks Ohio's largest eight cities as follows:

Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Toledo, Akron, Dayton, Youngstown and Canton. These comprise the over-100,000 group, with Parma coming up fast at 97,458 and Springfield closing in with 83,427.

The statistical monstrosity is revealed when this ranking is compared with the U.S. Bureau of Census ranking of urbanized areas. These areas consist of a central municipality and the built-up urban area surrounding it.

RANKED by urban areas as they existed in 1960, Ohio's eight largest cities are Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Akron, Toledo, Youngstown and Canton. But the real discrepancy is not in ranking but population totals.

Canton, in eighth place in both lists, is credited with only 113,171 in the Ohio Department of Development revised list, a few hundred less than its population in the 1960 census. In the urbanized area list, however, Canton is credited with 213,574.

To show the misleading effect of unrealistic statistics still further, Canton is credited with 340,345 in the Census Bureau's list of standard metropolitan statistical areas, meaning areas whose activities form an integrated economic and social system.

Ultimately, these metropolitan areas will be the "city states" that will make up the nation. Municipalities and even states ultimately will become subordinate, as they already are in cases where metropolitan statistical areas include two or more cities and parts of several states.

IT IS INTERESTING to note in this connection that the Cleveland metropolitan statistical area, Ohio's largest, contains 1,796,595, compared with only 863,755 in the revised list offered by the Ohio Department of Development.

In the metropolitan list, both Cincinnati and Dayton are revealed to be much larger than Columbus.

Let's Use The Right Name

It's hard to see how any presidential nominee from now on is going to duck the ordeal of television "debate." This being true, the ordeal should be called by its right name.

It is not a debate. It is a confrontation of rivals to determine which one looks better on television, speaks better and makes the better all-around impression.

There is no discussion of issues, in the sense of debating. In 1960, advance preparation was forbidden. Notes were prohibited. The whole affair was geared to the awkward device of listeners asking questions, roughly equivalent to throwing pennies into the water to see who could retrieve them with greater agility.

Richard Nixon was not as photogenic as John Kennedy. Mr. Kennedy had the advantage of being the challenger. Mr. Nixon had the disadvantage of defending an administration in which he never had been the key policy-maker.

Mr. Nixon looked as if he had been sick when the "debates" began in September—and he had. He improved later, but the damage had been done. He had lost the battle of photogenics. And what did the two men "debate" about? Who knows now? Who cares? Nothing was settled.

When it was all over and the television networks had taken their bows, there was an easy consensus on one point: John Kennedy, who needed the exposure, got what he needed, and Richard Nixon, who didn't need TV exposure, would have been well-advised to have ducked the proposition.

But the fact is he couldn't duck it. No candidate can duck it, now that TV has become the mainstream of political campaigning.

But let's not think of it as a debate. Let's think of it as an ordeal of personality exposure—a political "beauty contest."

Speaking For All Of Us

When it is pointed out, either as criticism or explanation, that Negroes have no spokesmen, the same observation must be made about Caucasians in this country.

Who can speak for Caucasians in the United States?

Certainly it could not be any of the self-appointed spokesmen of the racist groups now taking a fresh lease on hate in hope of exploiting the insecure who are not sure enough of themselves to be objective about the struggle of Negroes to upgrade themselves.

Nor could it be any of the idealists who stand for principles that have been rejected by millions of their fellow countrymen. Nor could it be any other moderate or extremist. They would not represent all Caucasians, either.

Negroes are not unique in lacking leaders who can speak in their behalf. The heads of their civil rights groups meeting in New York this week represent only their own followers. They do not even have the ear of other Negroes.

But Negroes are not without spokesmen. The Constitution speaks for them. The anti-discrimination laws of the enlightened states speak for them. The new civil rights legislation and the federal legislation that preceded it speak for them.

No one can expect a handful of Negroes who head organizations agitating for civil rights to take responsibility for all Negroes in the United States. No one expects any comparable group of white men to take responsibility for Caucasians.

Under a Constitution that guarantees sovereignty to all of us, "We the people of the United States" must speak for all of us.

Everything But The Noise

Each of us in this generation owes a debt of gratitude to Oklahoma City for saving our eardrums and peace of mind. At the end of this week, a six-months test of sonic boom testing over Oklahoma City ends.

The purpose was to learn how much noise people could bear if government efforts to develop a supersonic airliner in competition with England, France and, presumably, Russia are successful. Eight times a day the U.S. Air Force broke the sound barrier over Oklahoma City, to test the people's tolerance for sonic booming.

The testing revealed what had been suspected. The tolerance was used up in a hurry. The Federal Aviation Agency, which ordered the tests and supervised them, learned that the niusance was even greater than had been realized.

Only one conclusion was possible. A supersonic airliner capable of flying 2,000 miles an hour would be intolerable, unless some discovery not now anticipated reduced its anticipated noise level. Even the military planes used over Oklahoma City broke windows, cracked walls and wore out the patience of residents.

As a result, FAA now realizes that development of a supersonic airliner must be accompanied by development of a noise inhibitor, or the airliner would be useless.

Dear Nephew: Your Aunt Effie and I get tired of hearing other people squawk. We thought it would be fun to count our blessings.

Here are some things we are thankful for in this Year of Grace:

Instant tea that has taken most of the trouble and all the misgivings out of iced tea, newspapers and television that keep us informed about what other people are complaining about;

Chewing gum, which has given me more low-priced pleasure in my lifetime than anything else I can name; musical recordings so good everybody now has a choice seat for concerts by the greatest artists;

The personal neatness made possible by the dry-cleaning industry, automobiles that perform flawlessly month in and month out, the equivalent of several trips around the world; writers blessed with the talent to divert our thoughts;

Medical skills that make it possible to track down the causes of what formerly were written off as "mysterious illnesses," an infinite variety of non-alcoholic beverages pleasing to the taste, also a nice assortment of alcoholic beverages that can be ingested without a shudder;

Modern dental skill that routinely performs miracles for those of us who have mishaps, long-distance telephoning that bridges vast distances instantaneously, dietary knowledge that makes it possible for matrons to look as attractive as their daughters;

Free speech and freedom of assembly, despite the fits they give to frustrated authoritarians who don't believe in them for anyone but themselves; the sense of relief that follows the tension and excitement of summer storms;

Textiles that permit people to be comfortable in summertime without looking like unmade beds, the Richard Boone Players on TV, homogenized peanut butter, deodorants that do the job;

Winston Churchill, Margaret Chase Smith, Everett McKinley Dirksen, President Johnson's beagles, volunteer fire departments, all people with understanding hearts, dogs with a built-in sense of humor;

Good listeners, story-tellers with the knack of getting it over before the point is lost, artisans who know their jobs, friends with understanding hearts—

And people who find something better to do with their energy than concentrate on all the things about this world they don't like.

We send loving regards to you and yours —and don't let us catch you joining the squawkers or we won't include you in our next list of things we are thankful for.

Castro Tells Of Tie With Russians

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Evidence just furnished from an unexpected quarter proves to the world how the Soviet Union has deliberately and of its own initiative invaded the Western Hemisphere as a means of carrying on the "cold war" against the United States.

David Lawrence

Fidel Castro was amazingly frank when, in answering the questions of visiting newsmen a few days ago, he incriminated the Moscow government. He had been asked about how his relations with the Communists had developed. He said:

"Facts and events forced Cuba into the Soviet sphere. When the first American aggressions started against Cuba and when the first agrarian reform began, Cuba did not have any diplomatic or commercial relations with the Soviet Union. But everytime the United States attacked us, they (the Soviets) made offers and solutions and that is why we slowly began friendship and ties with the Soviet Union."

The Moscow regime has insisted right along that it came to the aid of Cuba only because the government in Havana requested it. This is a historic form of alibi for intervention but, in the case of Cuba, the world now knows that Russia took the initiative. Certainly the establishment of missile bases, fully equipped with weapons that could attack a large part of the territory of the United States, wasn't something dreamed up by Castro.

UNFORTUNATELY, the United States has been willing virtually to close the books on the episode every since Premier Khrushchev in October 1962 promised the late President Kennedy that the missile bases would be dismantled and Soviet troops would be withdrawn.

The fact is that the government of the Soviet Union continues today to maintain a military force of its own in Cuba, and the missile bases can be reactivated at any time by the Russian "technicians" still on hand.

The Johnson administration has apparently decided to let matters drift, and to accept the assurances from Moscow that the troops gradually will be withdrawn. But nearly two years now have elapsed since the first promises were made, and they have not yet been completely fulfilled. It certainly shouldn't take two years to withdraw a few thousand troops.

WHILE SOVIET military personnel has been reduced, the UPI in a dispatch on Tuesday —attributed to administration officials in Washington as the source — said:

"The Russians are believed still in complete charge of the control center near Havana. This gives them a veto on any possible Cuban use of the missiles contrary to Soviet interest. Soviet Premier Khrushchev is believed to be reluctant to give Premier Castro complete control of the anti-aircraft missile system."

Why should any European government be keeping any of its missiles or other military equipment in any country in this hemisphere and controlling their use — especially on an island only 90 miles away from the coast of the United States?

The Soviet government, of course, continues also to operate its apparatus for subversion and espionage in many Latin - American countries, including Mexico.

It may be surprising to many people in the United States to learn that the Mexican governments tolerates within its territory the presence of Communist plotters and agents.

Just this week the government of Mexico refused to vote diplomatic and economic sanctions against Cuba, even though a majority of the members of the Organization of American States did so.

THE FUTURE of the Western Hemisphere is very much the concern of the Washington government. Much publicity has been given in recent years to the Alliance for Progress concept. This, however, cannot succeed without money, and the people of this country are not likely to look with favor on the flow of funds to any Latin-American country which tolerates Communist espionage and the meddling by a European power in the affairs of the nations of this hemisphere.

As for the policy of the United States toward the Soviet Union, revelations such as Fidel Castro now has made official do not augur well for the success of disarmament talks or any other negotiations with the Moscow regime. So long as mutual trust has not been established, any agreements that may be made are valueless.

UNHAPPILY, there is a peace at any price element in this country which believes in a soft policy toward Russia. This was emphasized recently by the suggestion made by Sen. Goldwater that the question of continuing diplomatic relations with Moscow should be reexamined and that, unless Moscow agrees to abstain from certain acts of hostility toward this country, severance of diplomatic relations should be considered.

The Arizona senator was jumped on by critics for even raising the subject. Presumably that's why Moscow feels confident it can continue unchecked its acts of aggression and the flouting of the Washington government's policies in this hemisphere.

African Revolutionists Battle Strikes

By VICTOR RIESEL

LAGOS, NIGERIA

I spent most of one day here mixing with sit-down strikers and some of their muscled rock throwers, who never got a chance to heave anything because the excellent Nigerian anti-riot police move quicker than a late commuter back home.

Victor Riesel

The sit-downers at a construction job had struck in protest against their employer's refusal to pay them full wages for the time they lost when they went out in last month's massive general strike.

The June stoppage had lasted 13 days and, though little noticed by the world, it had pulled out more than 800,000 workers in the largest general strike anywhere on the globe in recent times. It stopped trains, paralyzed docks, affected airports, crippled post and telegraph, universities and the government bureaus as well.

The government yielded to many demands of something called labor's Joint Action Committee — and also agreed to full strike pay for the idle time. But the private businessmen refused to pay strike time. So now stoppages are sweeping the country. A new general strike is threatened.

OUT OF THIS national trauma, Nigeria's new officials, fire-eaters themselves not so long ago, have learned that it is one thing to lead a fight for independence and quite another to lead a government — especially one of 40 million people.

The prime minister, Alhaji Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, and the men around him — some of whom were labor leaders themselves in the old days — are learning the difference between making demands and getting them.

So are many other African heads of new states who now suddenly must make national ends meet.

And their reaction is rougher than that of the Western democracies and "monopolists" they criticize so much so regularly.

When the gargantuan general strike flared across this vast land of scores of tribes, of hundreds of languages, the prime minister had before him the example of the action taken by the old Mau Mau leader, Jomo Kenyatta, now prime minister of Kenya.

NOT SO LONG AGO the Kenyan labor leaders advised Mr. Kenyatta that they would paralyze all public services in that country unless they received an "Uhuru" bonus of one month's pay — making it 13 months' wages for 12 months' work. "Uhuru" means freedom.

But the cagey 74-year-old former jungle fighter summoned the labor leaders to his attractive modern new prime minister's headquarters. When they arrived they saw two stacks of documents on Premier Kenyatta's large desk. In each stack were 16 official-looking papers. There were also 16 labor leaders in the room.

Pointing to the documents the old revolutionist asked:

"Which of us is going to do the signing?"

The union chiefs looked puzzled until their prime minister explained that one set of papers were declarations that the threatened strike had been called off. The other set were warrants for the immediate arrest and detention of the labor leaders on charges of subversive activity.

THE UNION MEN signed the statements calling off the strike.

But here in Lagos, the Cabinet of the sister republic of Nigeria attempted to deal more gently with the labor leaders. Prime Minister Alhaji Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, on the eve of the strike, warned of the danger to the young nation.

The minister of economic development warned against the use of strikes as "a weapon to win industrial disputes." But the strike rolled.

Then Chief Abebo, Nigeria's top delegate at the United Nations, who also is Nigerian commissioner general for economic affairs in the U. S., flew into Lagos. He broadcast to the nation. He said he had been the leader of railroad workers before going into the government.

He told them of the need for foreign capital and how difficult it would be if the general strike continued. It did continue.

FACED WITH a crippled nation, the government made its peace. But then it moved swiftly. It began preparing new labor laws. From now on there will be industrial courts. They will rule on labor-management disputes.

In effect, there will be compulsory arbitration. Furthermore, there will be National Industrial Councils for each major industry. They will be "wages boards." But even their decisions will have to be approved by the ministry of labor, which, of course, means the prime minister.

There will be discipline. Thus it goes across Africa. In some lands, as in Algeria, the ruling political party has taken over the unions. In Ghana, the labor federation is an instrument of the state. And in the democracies, such as this one in Nigeria, the labor leaders are being told by their old comrades in arms that there is a point beyond which Uhuru — independence — cannot be stretched.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By George Lichty

Little Defection Noted

By David Wise

WASHINGTON — The declaration of independence by New York's two liberal Republican senators has not, so far at least, launched any bandwagon of disaffection for Barry Goldwater, among their colleagues in the Senate who must face the voters this fall.

On the other hand, it has offered some quiet encouragement to some moderate Republicans up for reelection who are trapped between their Conscience and their Conservative views.

The United States Senate has 100 members, of whom 67 are Democrats and 33 Republicans. Of the 35 seats up this November, 26 are Democratic and nine Republican.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, a leading Senate Republican liberal—who is not one of the nine Republicans up for reelection — began the independence move with a statement that he would not "bolt the party" but "I must in conscience withhold my support from the national Republican ticket."

A few hours later, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, who is running in New York this year and probably faces a tight race, announced that he would campaign "independently of the head of the ticket."

OF THE EIGHT other Senate Republicans, four (including Goldwater's possible Senate successor) are strong, vocal Goldwater conservatives. The other four view the Arizonan's candidacy with mixed emotions but are not at all likely to "take a walk."

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, a liberal Republican, was Gov. William W. Scranton's convention manager at San Francisco. He fought hard, albeit unsuccessfully, to stop the Goldwater bandwagon. With Goldwater at the head of the ticket, Scott, a former GOP National chairman, faces a tough reelection battle in an industrial, Eastern state that John F. Kennedy carried by 116,326 votes in 1960.

Sen. J. Glenn Beall of Maryland, 70, seeking his third term, expressed some reservations about Sen. Goldwater after the Javits-Keating move, but has not clearly indicated he will follow an independent course.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, 60, of Nebraska is a big Goldwater booster who is 100 per cent for Barry, like the Nebraska delegation to the national convention.

Sen. Edwin L. Mechem, 52, of New Mexico, a strong conservative, will certainly not join any liberal, moderate defection.

Sen. Hiram L. Fong, 57, of Hawaii is running as a regular Republican in what is expected to be a close race. He will reluctantly support Goldwater, but how fully remains to be seen.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty of Vermont, 58, will run as a regular Republican, but an aid told the Herald Tribune News Service that the senator feels free to "disagree" with Goldwater anytime.

Sen. John J. Williams, 60, the crusading chicken farmer from Millsboro, Del., is expected to win a fourth term without much difficulty. He is emphatically a Goldwater man, and has taken the lead in pressing the investigation into the Bobby Baker case, a scandal which Goldwater may make a major campaign issue.

Gov. Paul Fannin of Arizona, 57, is expected to run for Goldwater's Senate seat, now that the Republican nominee has announced he will not run simultaneously for both the White House and the Senate.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO—W. E. Roberts, formerly of Mineral Ridge, assumed his duties as county superintendent of school.

John Smith of Raccoon Township was elected a teacher by the Shippingport Board of Education to succeed Miss Erla McHaffie, who resigned.

TWENY YEARS AGO — A new Cub Scout Pack 7, sponsored by St. Aloysius Catholic Church, was awarded its charter.

Miss Dorothy Sayre of Bank St. accepted a position in Cleveland.

The Tale Of The Cities

The population ranking of Ohio cities according to population inside outdated municipal boundaries is a threadbare statistical monstrosity.

Nevertheless, the Ohio Department of Development has submitted a new list based on estimates as of last Jan. 1. It ranks Ohio's largest eight cities as follows:

Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Toledo, Akron, Dayton, Youngstown and Canton. These comprise the over-100,000 group, with Parma coming up fast at 97,458 and Springfield closing in with 83,427.

The statistical monstrosity is revealed when this ranking is compared with the U.S. Bureau of Census ranking of urbanized areas. These areas consist of a central municipality and the built-up urban area surrounding it.

RANKED by urban areas as they existed in 1960, Ohio's eight largest cities are Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Akron, Toledo, Youngstown and Canton. But the real discrepancy is not in ranking but population totals.

Canton, in eighth place in both lists, is credited with only 113,171 in the Ohio Department of Development revised list, a few hundred less than its population in the 1960 census. In the urbanized area list, however, Canton is credited with 213,574.

To show the misleading effect of unrealistic statistics still further, Canton is credited with 340,345 in the Census Bureau's list of standard metropolitan statistical areas, meaning areas whose activities form an integrated economic and social system.

Ultimately, these metropolitan areas will be the "city states" that will make up the nation. Municipalities and even states ultimately will become subordinate, as they already are in cases where metropolitan statistical areas include two or more cities and parts of several states.

IT IS INTERESTING to note in this connection that the Cleveland metropolitan statistical area, Ohio's largest, contains 1,796,595, compared with only 863,755 in the revised list offered by the Ohio Department of Development.

In the metropolitan list, both Cincinnati and Dayton are revealed to be much larger than Columbus.

Let's Use The Right Name

It's hard to see how any presidential nominee from now on is going to duck the ordeal of television "debate." This being true, the ordeal should be called by its right name.

It is not a debate. It is a confrontation of rivals to determine which one looks better on television, speaks better and makes the better all-around impression.

There is no discussion of issues, in the sense of debating. In 1960, advance preparation was forbidden. Notes were prohibited. The whole affair was geared to the awkward device of listeners asking questions, roughly equivalent to throwing pennies into the water to see who could retrieve them with greater agility.

Richard Nixon was not as photogenic as John Kennedy. Mr. Kennedy had the advantage of being the challenger. Mr. Nixon had the disadvantage of defending an administration in which he never had been the key policy-maker.

Mr. Nixon looked as if he had been sick when the "debates" began in September—and he had. He improved later, but the damage had been done. He had lost the battle of photogenics. And what did the two men "debate" about? Who knows now? Who cares? Nothing was settled.

When it was all over and the television networks had taken their bows, there was an easy consensus on one point: John Kennedy, who needed the exposure, got what he needed, and Richard Nixon, who didn't need TV exposure, would have been well-advised to have ducked the proposition.

But the fact is he couldn't duck it. No candidate can duck it, now that TV has become the mainstream of political campaigning.

But let's not think of it as a debate. Let's think of it as an ordeal of personality exposure—a political "beauty contest."

Speaking For All Of Us

When it is pointed out, either as criticism or explanation, that Negroes have no spokesmen, the same observation must be made about Caucasians in this country.

Who can speak for Caucasians in the United States?

Certainly it could not be any of the self-appointed spokesmen of the racist groups now taking a fresh lease on hate in hope of exploiting the insecure who are not sure enough of themselves to be objective about the struggle of Negroes to upgrade themselves.

Nor could it be any of the idealists who stand for principles that have been rejected by millions of their fellow countrymen. Nor could it be any other moderate or extremist. They would not represent all Caucasians, either.

Negroes are not unique in lacking leaders who can speak in their behalf. The heads of their civil rights groups meeting in New York this week represent only their own followers. They do not even have the ear of other Negroes.

But Negroes are not without spokesmen. The Constitution speaks for them. The anti-discrimination laws of the enlightened states speak for them. The new civil rights legislation and the federal legislation that preceded it speak for them.

No one can expect a handful of Negroes who head organizations agitating for civil rights to take responsibility for all Negroes in the United States. No one expects any comparable group of white men to take responsibility for Caucasians.

Under a Constitution that guarantees sovereignty to all of us, "We the people of the United States" must speak for all of us.

Everything But The Noise

Each of us in this generation owes a debt of gratitude to Oklahoma City for saving our eardrums and peace of mind. At the end of this week, a six-months test of sonic boom testing over Oklahoma City ends.

The purpose was to learn how much noise people could bear if government efforts to develop a supersonic airliner in competition with England, France and, presumably, Russia are successful. Eight times a day the U.S. Air Force broke the sound barrier over Oklahoma City, to test the people's tolerance for sonic booming.

The testing revealed what had been suspected. The tolerance was used up in a hurry. The Federal Aviation Agency, which ordered the tests and supervised them, learned that the niusance was even greater than had been realized.

Only one conclusion was possible. A supersonic airliner capable of flying 2,000 miles an hour would be intolerable, unless some discovery not now anticipated reduced its anticipated noise level. Even the military planes used over Oklahoma City broke windows, cracked walls and wore out the patience of residents.

As a result, FAA now realizes that development of a supersonic airliner must be accompanied by development of a noise inhibitor, or the airliner would be useless.

Dear Nephew: Your Aunt Effie and I get tired of hearing other people squawk. We thought it would be fun to count our blessings.

Here are some things we are thankful for in this Year of Grace:

Instant tea that has taken most of the trouble and all the misgivings out of iced tea, newspapers and television that keep us informed about what other people are complaining about;

Chewing gum, which has given me more low-priced pleasure in my lifetime than anything else I can name; musical recordings so good everybody now has a choice seat for concerts by the greatest artists;

The personal neatness made possible by the dry-cleaning industry, automobiles that perform flawlessly month in and month out, the equivalent of several trips around the world; writers blessed with the talent to divert our thoughts;

Medical skills that make it possible to track down the causes of what formerly were written off as "mysterious illnesses," an infinite variety of non-alcoholic beverages pleasing to the taste, also a nice assortment of alcoholic beverages that can be ingested without a shudder;

Modern dental skill that routinely performs miracles for those of us who have mishaps, long-distance telephoning that bridges vast distances instantaneously, dietary knowledge that makes it possible for matrons to look as attractive as their daughters;

Free speech and freedom of assembly, despite the fits they give to frustrated authoritarians who don't believe in them for anyone but themselves; the sense of relief that follows the tension and excitement of summer storms;

Textiles that permit people to be comfortable in summertime without looking like unmade beds, the Richard Boone Players on TV, homogenized peanut butter, deodorants that do the job;

Winston Churchill, Margaret Chase Smith, Everett McKinley Dirksen, President Johnson's beagles, volunteer fire departments, all people with understanding hearts, dogs with a built-in sense of humor;

Good listeners, story-tellers with the knack of getting it over before the point is lost, artisans who know their jobs, friends with understanding hearts—

And people who find something better to do with their energy than concentrate on all the things about this world they don't like.

We send loving regards to you and yours—and don't let us catch you joining the squawkers or we won't include you in our next list of things we are thankful for.

Castro Tells Of Tie With Russians

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Evidence just furnished from an unexpected quarter proves to the world how the Soviet Union has deliberately and of its own initiative invaded the Western Hemisphere as a means of carrying on the "cold war" against the United States.

David Lawrence

Fidel Castro was amazingly frank when, in answering the questions of visiting newsmen a few days ago, he incriminated the Moscow government. He had been asked about how his relations with the Communists had developed. He said:

"Facts and events forced Cuba into the Soviet sphere. When the first American aggressions started against Cuba and when the first agrarian reform began, Cuba did not have any diplomatic or commercial relations with the Soviet Union. But everytime the United States attacked us, they (the Soviets) made offers and solutions and that is why we slowly began friendship and ties with the Soviet Union."

The Moscow regime has insisted right along that it came to the aid of Cuba only because the government in Havana requested it. This is a historic form of alibi for intervention but, in the case of Cuba, the world now knows that Russia took the initiative. Certainly the establishment of missile bases, fully equipped with weapons that could attack a large part of the territory of the United States, wasn't something dreamed up by Castro.

UNFORTUNATELY, the United States has been willing virtually to close the books on the episode every since Premier Khrushchev in October 1962 promised the late President Kennedy that the missile bases would be dismantled and Soviet troops would be withdrawn.

The fact is that the government of the Soviet Union continues today to maintain a military force of its own in Cuba, and the missile bases can be reactivated at any time by the Russian "technicians" still on hand.

The Johnson administration has apparently decided to let matters drift, and to accept the assurances from Moscow that the troops gradually will be withdrawn. But nearly two years now have elapsed since the first promises were made, and they have not yet been completely fulfilled. It certainly shouldn't take two years to withdraw a few thousand troops.

WHILE SOVIET military personnel has been reduced, the UPI in a dispatch on Tuesday —attributed to administration officials in Washington as the source — said:

"The Russians are believed still in complete charge of the control center near Havana. This gives them a veto on any possible Cuban use of the missiles contrary to Soviet interest. Soviet Premier Khrushchev is believed to be reluctant to give Premier Castro complete control of the anti-aircraft missile system."

Why should any European government be keeping any of its missiles or other military equipment in any country in this hemisphere and controlling their use — especially on an island only 90 miles away from the coast of the United States?

The Soviet government, of course, continues also to operate its apparatus for subversion and espionage in many Latin - American countries, including Mexico.

It may be surprising to many people in the United States to learn that the Mexican governments tolerates within its territory the presence of Communist plotters and agents.

Just this week the government of Mexico refused to vote diplomatic and economic sanctions against Cuba, even though a majority of the members of the Organization of American States did so.

THE FUTURE of the Western Hemisphere is very much the concern of the Washington government. Much publicity has been given in recent years to the Alliance for Progress concept. This, however, cannot succeed without money, and the people of this country are not likely to look with favor on the flow of funds to any Latin-American country which tolerates Communist espionage and the meddling by a European power in the affairs of the nations of this hemisphere.

As for the policy of the United States toward the Soviet Union, revelations such as Fidel Castro now has made official do not augur well for the success of disarmament talks or any other negotiations with the Moscow regime. So long as mutual trust has not been established, any agreements that may be made are valueless.

UNHAPPILY, there is a peace at any price element in this country which believes in a soft policy toward Russia. This was emphasized recently by the suggestion made by Sen. Goldwater that the question of continuing diplomatic relations with Moscow should be reexamined and that, unless Moscow agrees to abstain from certain acts of hostility toward this country, severance of diplomatic relations should be considered.

The Arizona senator was jumped on by critics for even raising the subject. Presumably that's why Moscow feels confident it can continue unchecked its acts of aggression and the flouting of the Washington government's policies in this hemisphere.

African Revolutionists Battle Strikes

By VICTOR RIESEL

LAGOS, NIGERIA

I spent most of one day here mixing with sit-down strikers and some of their muscled rock throwers, who never got a chance to heave anything because the excellent Nigerian anti-riot police move quicker than a late commuter back home.

Victor Riesel

The sit-downers at a construction job had struck in protest against their employer's refusal to pay them full wages for the time they lost when they went out in last month's massive general strike.

The June stoppage had lasted 13 days and, though little noticed by the world, it had pulled out more than 800,000 workers in the largest general strike anywhere on the globe in recent times. It stopped trains, paralyzed docks, affected airports, crippled post and telegraph, universities and the government bureaus as well.

The government yielded to many demands of something called labor's Joint Action Committee — and also agreed to full strike pay for the idle time. But the private businessmen refused to pay strike time. So now stoppages are sweeping the country. A new general strike is threatened.

OUT OF THIS national trauma, Nigeria's new officials, fire-eaters themselves not so long ago, have learned that it is one thing to lead a fight for independence and quite another to lead a government — especially one of 40 million people.

The prime minister, Alhaji Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, and the men around him — some of whom were labor leaders themselves in the old days — are learning the difference between making demands and getting them.

So are many other African heads of new states who now suddenly must make national ends meet.

And their reaction is rougher than that of the Western democracies and "monopolists" they criticize so much so regularly.

When the gargantuan general strike flared across this vast land of scores of tribes, of hundreds of languages, the prime minister had before him the example of the action taken by the old Mau Mau leader, Jomo Kenyatta, now prime minister of Kenya.

NOT SO LONG AGO the Kenyan labor leaders advised Mr. Kenyatta that they would paralyze all public services in that country unless they received an "Uhuru" bonus of one month's pay — making it 13 months' wages for 12 months' work. "Uhuru" means freedom.

But the cagey 74-year-old former jungle fighter summoned the labor leaders to his attractive modern new prime minister's headquarters. When they arrived they saw two stacks of documents on Premier Kenyatta's large desk. In each stack were 16 official-looking papers. There were also 16 labor leaders in the room.

Pointing to the documents the old revolutionist asked:

"Which of us is going to do the signing?"

The union chiefs looked puzzled until their prime minister explained that one set of papers were declarations that the threatened strike had been called off. The other set were warrants for the immediate arrest and detention of the labor leaders on charges of subversive activity.

THE UNION MEN signed the statements calling off the strike.

But here in Lagos, the Cabinet of the sister republic of Nigeria attempted to deal more gently with the labor leaders. Prime Minister Alhaji Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, on the eve of the strike, warned of the danger to the young nation.

The minister of economic development warned against the use of strikes as "a weapon to win industrial disputes." But the strike rolled.

Then Chief Abebo, Nigeria's top delegate at the United Nations, who also is Nigerian commissioner general for economic affairs in the U. S., flew into Lagos. He broadcast to the nation. He said he had been the leader of railroad workers before going into the government.

He told them of the need for foreign capital and how difficult it would be if the general strike continued. It did continue.

FACED WITH a crippled nation, the government made its peace. But then it moved swiftly. It began preparing new labor laws. From now on there will be industrial courts. They will rule on labor-management disputes.

In effect, there will be compulsory arbitration. Furthermore, there will be National Industrial Councils for each major industry. They will be "wages boards." But even their decisions will have to be approved by the ministry of labor, which, of course, means the prime minister.

There will be discipline. Thus it goes across Africa. In some lands, as in Algeria, the ruling political party has taken over the unions. In Ghana, the labor federation is an instrument of the state. And in the democracies, such as this one in Nigeria, the labor leaders are being told by their old comrades in arms that there is a point beyond which Uhuru — independence — cannot be stretched.

Little Defection Noted

By David Wise

WASHINGTON — The declaration of independence by New York's two liberal Republican senators has not, so far at least, launched any bandwagon of disaffection for Barry Goldwater, among their colleagues in the Senate who must face the voters this fall.

On the other hand, it has offered some quiet encouragement to some moderate Republicans up for reelection who are trapped between their Conscience and their Conservative views.

The United States Senate has 100 members, of whom 67 are Democrats and 33 Republicans. Of the 35 seats up this November, 26 are Democratic and nine Republican.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, a leading Senate Republican liberal—who is not one of the nine Republicans up for reelection — began the independence move with a statement that he would not "bolt the party" but "I must in conscience withhold my support from the national Republican ticket."

A few hours later, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, who is running in New York this year and probably faces a tight race, announced that he would campaign "independently of the head of the ticket."

OF THE EIGHT other Senate Republicans, four (including Goldwater's possible Senate successor) are strong, vocal Goldwater conservatives. The other four view the Arizonan's candidacy with mixed emotions but are not at all likely to "take a walk."

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, a liberal Republican, was Gov. William W. Scranton's convention manager at San Francisco. He fought hard, albeit unsuccessfully, to stop the Goldwater bandwagon. With Goldwater at the head of the ticket, Scott, a former GOP National chairman, faces a tough reelection battle in an industrial, Eastern state that John F. Kennedy carried by 116,326 votes in 1960.

Sen. J. Glenn Beall of Maryland, 70, seeking his third term, expressed some reservations about Sen. Goldwater after the Javits-Keating move, but has not clearly indicated he will follow an independent course.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, 60, of Nebraska is a big Goldwater booster who is 100 per cent for Barry, like the Nebraska delegation to the national convention.

Sen. Edwin L. Mechem, 52, of New Mexico, a strong conservative, will certainly not join any liberal, moderate defection.

Sen. Hiram L. Fong, 57, of Hawaii is running as a regular Republican in what is expected to be a close race. He will reluctantly support Goldwater, but how fully remains to be seen.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty of Vermont, 58, will run as a regular Republican, but an aid told the Herald Tribune News Service that the senator feels free to "disagree" with Goldwater anytime.

Sen. John J. Williams, 60, the crusading chicken farmer from Millsboro, Del., is expected to win a fourth term without much difficulty. He is emphatically a Goldwater man, and has taken the lead in pressing the investigation into the Bobby Baker case, a scandal which Goldwater may make a major campaign issue.

Gov. Paul Fannin of Arizona, 57, is expected to run for Goldwater's Senate seat, now that the Republican nominee has announced he will not run simultaneously for both the White House and the Senate.

U.S. Faces New Problems

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Chinese firecrackers sputter and crackle on the world diplomatic stage, and a strange spectacle is unfolding.

At the center of the spectacle is West Germany, like a ponderous coquette at an international ball. Suitors in both camps eye one another with hostile suspicion.

The Soviet Union and Red China, each in its own way, court Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's regime. President Charles de Gaulle's France, like a jilted swain, is sulking. The United States remains Bonn's favored suitor, but the long-range possibilities could make Washington jumpy.

Premier Khrushchev and Soviet propaganda still vigorously accuse the West German regime of plotting revenge and seeking nuclear arms for nefarious purposes. But Khrushchev now is virtually committed to go to Bonn, probably late this year, to talk with Erhard on a wide assortment of issues. On political issues, such as Berlin, they may make scant progress, but on the economic side the story could be different.

The Red Chinese appear to find unwelcome the notion that Khrushchev might mend his relations with West Germany. French recognition of Peking has increased Red China's interest in Europe. This seems to worry the Kremlin.

Apart from Red Chinese muscle-flexing, there are a number of reasons why the Russians at this stage might want to play ball with West Germany.

Moscow has been restive about French-German cooperation, which reached a point of near-euphoria early in 1963 when Konrad Adenauer still was at the helm in Bonn. The two countries have less in the way of a common policy now. Erhard does not buy the idea of a European policy independent of the United States.

There's a lot of ferment in the yeast. Often, ideology seems to be sidetracked in the East in favor of old-fashioned power politics in which prospective trade becomes a potent weapon to pry alliances apart.

400 Face Work Loss At Cincinnati Concern

3 Die As Car Plunges From Road At Toledo

Goldwater Gets Profit From Sale Of Tobacco

VIDALIA, Ga. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's campaign coffers benefited to the tune of $182.50 when the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco market opened.

Farmer Frank Moore, 35, sold 146 pounds of tobacco in Goldwater's name Wednesday and said the money would go to the senator's presidential campaign.

Service Performed Above Call Of Duty

CHICAGO (AP) — A moving company (Aero - Mayflower Transit Co.) has performed a service above the call of duty.

A Chicago couple was moving to the West Coast. The furniture rolled away on the van and the couple was about to go abroad for vacation when the husband discovered he'd left his false teeth in a bureau drawer.

Phone calls along the route located the van; the teeth were sent back to Chicago, and the couple happily began munching their way through Europe.

Debate

campaign, explaining to his Cabinet how highly successful President Roosevelt was in the 1936 and 1940 elections when he tightly limited his electioneering.

It's no wonder he hasn't responded yet to Sen. Barry Goldwater's challenge to debate in front of the nation or that his press secretary, George Reedy, told newsmen Wednesday such a debate is not a matter the Democrats would consider until the campaign begins next September.

At the time of the 1960 debates Nixon, by the fact of his office, had been in the public eye seven years and was a national figure while Kennedy, except for such exposure as he got in the 1960 primary contests, was a relatively unknown senator from Massachusetts.

The four debates, with an audience of perhaps 70 million people watching each time, gave Kennedy an audience he couldn't otherwise have reached no matter how hard he campaigned. And Nixon, by an accident of wrong make-up and lighting, got off on the wrong foot in the very first debate.

Besides, the four so-called debates were not debates on the issues. The liveliest was the Quemoy-Matsu question. Instead of discussing issues, the two men were stating positions and by the fourth debate were repeating themselves.

A lot of voters almost certainly made their choice on what they thought came through their television screens — like personality and sincerity or the lack of it — and neither man was able to reveal his thinking fully in the limited time they had to answer questions from newsmen and television commentators.

Last January Goldwater said if he was president he wouldn't debate a candidate running against him. He said: "Why buy his audience? Let him get his own." And he added: "I think it's kind of dangerous to subject a president of the United States to questioning and debate.

"After all, his is the most responsible job in the world and he might just slip and say something inadvertently that could even change the course of history."

In other statements he said? "I don't think a president should debate anybody. I would excuse a president who refused to debate."

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Chinese firecrackers sputter and crackle on the world diplomatic stage, and a strange spectacle is unfolding.

At the center of the spectacle is West Germany, like a ponderous coquette at an international ball. Suitors in both camps eye one another with hostile suspicion.

The Soviet Union and Red China, each in its own way, court Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's regime. President Charles de Gaulle's France, like a jilted swain, is sulking. The United States remains Bonn's favored suitor, but the long-range possibilities could make Washington jumpy.

Premier Khrushchev and Soviet propaganda still vigorously accuse the West German regime of plotting revenge and seeking nuclear arms for nefarious purposes. But Khrushchev now is virtually committed to go to Bonn, probably late this year, to talk with Erhard on a wide assortment of issues. On political issues, such as Berlin, they may make scant progress, but on the economic side the story could be different.

The Red Chinese appear to find unwelcome the notion that Khrushchev might mend his relations with West Germany. French recognition of Peking has increased Red China's interest in Europe. This seems to worry the Kremlin.

Apart from Red Chinese muscle-flexing, there are a number of reasons why the Russians at this stage might want to play ball with West Germany.

Moscow has been restive about French-German cooperation, which reached a point of near-euphoria early in 1963 when Konrad Adenauer still was at the helm in Bonn. The two countries have less in the way of a common policy now. Erhard does not buy the idea of a European policy independent of the United States.

There's a lot of ferment in the yeast. Often, ideology seems to be sidetracked in the East in favor of old-fashioned power politics in which prospective trade becomes a potent weapon to pry alliances apart.

400 Face Work Loss At Cincinnati Concern

3 Die As Car Plunges From Road At Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Two men and a woman were killed when a convertible crashed through a guard rail and tumbled nearly 150 feet down an embankment off the Toledo-Detroit expressway, eight miles south of here.

Killed in the crash Wednesday was Irene Bain, 21, of Lima. The two men, Odell Cannon, 29, of Detroit, and Harney Wellington of Ecorse, Mich., died later in St. Charles Hospital here.

Alexandrite, a semiprecious stone, was named after Czar Alexander II of Russia, on whose birthday it was first found in the Ural Mountains.

Goldwater Gets Profit From Sale Of Tobacco

VIDALIA, Ga. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's campaign coffers benefited to the tune of $182.50 when the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco market opened.

Farmer Frank Moore, 35, sold 146 pounds of tobacco in Goldwater's name Wednesday and said the money would go to the senator's presidential campaign.

Service Performed Above Call Of Duty

A Chicago couple was moving to the West Coast. The furniture rolled away on the van and the couple was about to go abroad for vacation when the husband discovered he'd left his false teeth in a bureau drawer.

Phone calls along the route located the van; the teeth were sent back to Chicago, and the couple happily began munching their way through Europe.

campaign, explaining to his Cabinet how highly successful President Roosevelt was in the 1936 and 1940 elections when he tightly limited his electioneering.

It's no wonder he hasn't responded yet to Sen. Barry Goldwater's challenge to debate in front of the nation or that his press secretary, George Reedy, told newsmen Wednesday such a debate is not a matter the Democrats would consider until the campaign begins next September.

At the time of the 1960 debates Nixon, by the fact of his office, had been in the public eye seven years and was a national figure while Kennedy, except for such exposure as he got in the 1960 primary contests, was a relatively unknown senator from Massachusetts.

The four debates, with an audience of perhaps 70 million people watching each time, gave Kennedy an audience he couldn't otherwise have reached no matter how hard he campaigned. And Nixon, by an accident of wrong make-up and lighting, got off on the wrong foot in the very first debate.

Besides, the four so-called debates were not debates on the issues. The liveliest was the Quemoy-Matsu question. Instead of discussing issues, the two men were stating positions and by the fourth debate were repeating themselves.

A lot of voters almost certainly made their choice on what they thought came through their television screens — like personality and sincerity or the lack of it — and neither man was able to reveal his thinking fully in the limited time they had to answer questions from newsmen and television commentators.

Last January Goldwater said if he was president he wouldn't debate a candidate running against him. He said: "Why buy his audience? Let him get his own." And he added: "I think it's kind of dangerous to subject a president of the United States to questioning and debate.

"After all, his is the most responsible job in the world and he might just slip and say something inadvertently that could even change the course of history."

In other statements he said? "I don't think a president should debate anybody. I would excuse a president who refused to debate."

Goldwater himself refused to debate New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton. They were willing to but Goldwater said he could "understand why Nelson and Bill would welcome a little help in getting an audience but I think I'll let them try their hand at getting their own."

Thousands In Ohio

Auxiliaries Assist Police

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thousands of Ohioans who would have liked to become policemen, but didn't for one reason or another, are doing the next best thing — working as volunteer part-time police.

Together with several thousand more who are trying police work to see if they would like it as a full-time job and others who simply want to do something for their community, these would-be policemen make up the police, sheriff's and highway patrol auxiliaries in communities and counties across the state.

Working in most cases without pay, these auxiliaries are taking some of the burden off overtaxed police and sheriff's forces.

Mainly, they complement the regular force, handling jobs such as traffic control for parades and during holidays, working at football games and other sporting events.

In addition to these duties, auxiliaries quite often work with or fully make up rescue units and ride cruisers with regular officers. A few women auxiliaries generally are called upon as dispatchers.

Many of these jobs would have to be left undone or neglected without the police auxiliary since most law enforcement agencies are understaffed.

In Youngstown, for example, police officials acknowledge that night football would not be possible without the auxiliary since there aren't enough regular police to dispatch to produce adequate insurance against disturbances or riots.

Lt. A. E. (Buck) Remmert, who heads the auxiliary in Columbus, said most part-timers do not want to infringe on any overtime that might be due regulars "who most people feel are underpaid anyway. They realize that police work is bread and butter for the regulars, but only an outside activity for them."

Though commended for their work by police officials in all cities where there is an auxiliary, use of the part-timers is not without controversy.

Toledo Chief of Police Anthony A. Bosch says: "I'm against untrained and unpaid policemen. The present day police profession is a highly skilled, specialized and complex business. There is no room for amateurs."

Bosch, who heads a 539-man force, said he would like to add about 100 additional officers because annexations have greatly increased the population and area to be protected. But he says he would rather go with the present force than supplement the police division with citizen police.

Chief James R. Howerton of the Middletown police force voiced a similar opinion, saying: "There is no room for part-time employes in police work, just as there is no room for the part-time doctor of lawyer. There is a concerted effort around the country to upgrade police departments into a professional classification. Auxiliary policemen aren't going to help us. You just don't buy cheap law enforcement. You get what you pay for."

In Lima, volunteer units joined regular police in mock raid several years ago and a police officer was killed. The feeling still exists among many persons that his death was due to the bungling of civilian volunteers. The city no longer has an auxiliary force.

Numerous incidents of inexperienced auxiliary policemen being involved in and responsible for traffic snarls in Hamilton are listed as major reasons that city no longer has an auxiliary.

There was an incident in Stark County in 1959 where a young car theft suspect was wounded in the wrist by an auxiliary. The suspect and a companion were nabbed in a stolen car near the Summit-Stark County line and as the youths were being handcuffed, the auxiliary's gun went off. He said he had interpreted a move by one of the suspects as being an attempt to reach for a deputy's gun and that's why he shot.

A story is told in Columbus of an auxiliary policeman who chased a speeding motorist near the downtown area—gun drawn and waving it wildly.

Law enforcement officials favoring auxiliaries counter with stories of heroics by the part-timers.

Near Findlay, for example, a highway patrolman was shot and killed by a criminal who in turn was killed by the auxiliary riding in the cruiser.

A Columbus auxiliary once caught two gunmen.

The question of the use and effectiveness of citizen policemen has come to light with the formation of a citizen force in a section of Brooklyn, N. Y. The Crown Heights Police Association came into being to supplement regular law enforcement after several acts of violence on the city's streets. It works with, but is not supervised by or connected with the regular police force.

Its formation evoked bitter controversy over whether it was the place of the citizenry to attempt law enforcement on its own.

Many of the auxiliary forces in the state came into being during World War II when police manpower was at a low ebb.

Some of the forces disbanded after the war and others turned their attentions to civil defense work.

The part-timers in most cities receive training in all phases of police work—the same as received by regulars—only less of it.

Constantly stressed in the training is the fact that the auxiliary cannot take the law into his own hands, but only assist the patrolman to whom assigned.

In most cities, the auxiliary cannot make an arrest on his own unless the regular officer is unable to do so.

Columbus' Lt. Remmert said "the auxiliaries do good only when they realize what they are prepared for and don't overstep it. We've also got to be careful we don't get someone who just wants to be able to carry a gun."

Applicants in all communities are screened through background checks, personal interviews and references. Anyone convicted of a felony, and in some cities a major misdemeanor, or who is a member of a subversive group is automatically ineligible to serve.

More than half of the cities with auxiliaries do not allow the men to carry guns under any circumstances. Others, allow them to be armed when in full uniform.

Newark Police Chief L. L. Hall summed it up pretty well for those who favor using auxiliaries:

"With our manpower shortage, it would be impossible for the police department to operate effectively without the auxiliary."

Dynamite Kills Man

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Henry Bond Jr., 32, was blasting for water well on his property three miles northwest of here Wednesday when a dynamite charge west off in his hand and killed him.

City Trucker Hurt In Skid

A city resident was injured when his truck swerved out of control on rain-slicked Route 30 and overturned Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 near Chester, Hancock County sheriff's deputies reported.

William J. Simms, 57, of Logan St. told deputies he began to stop along the highway when his 1964 model truck swerved on wet pavement, went off the road and struck a sign of the West Virginia State Road Commission, then overturned.

Simms, a custodian at The Review, was treated at City Hospital for a deep laceration of the scalp and abrasions of the forehead. The accident happened 300 feet west of the junction of Route 30 and State Route 2 near Chester. The truck was demolished, deputies reported.

The sheriff's office also reported a two-car crash Wednesday morning at 9 on a narrow section of Gas Valley Rd., 600 feet west of Oak Glen High School in the Pughtown area.

Cars driven by Jerry L. Baxter, 17, of 807 Ridge Ave., New Cumberland, and Patricia L. Bruce, 23, of New Cumberland, R.D. 1, sideswiped on a section of Gas Valley Rd. only 13 feet wide, deputies said.

The cars were traveling in opposite directions, and each driver claimed his vehicle was off to the side as far as possible in attempts to avoid the collision. Neither was injured.

14 Men Pass Test For City School Posts

All 14 applicants received passing scores in a test conducted Wednesday night at City Hall by the Municipal Civil Service Commission to make up a new eligibility list for appointment of school custodians.

Named in the order in which they finished, they are:

Joe H. Jackson, 411 Palissey St., Curtis A. Miller, 1223 Cora St., Earl M. Culp, 123½ W. 5th St., Ollie O. Monroe, 2001 Michigan Ave., Leroy Martin, 1025 Ephriam St., William D. Mumaw, 308 Ridgeway Ave., Hugh T. McKernan, 1452 Dresden Ave.

At the time the commission scheduled the test, School Supt. Paul Blair said there were no vacancies on the custodial force. The man's names will be placed on an eligibility list that will remain in effect for a year.

The commission pointed out the test was open to any resident of the school district, which takes in the city, all of Liverpool Township and part of St. Clair Township.

The commission will conduct an exam tonight at 7 in the Council chamber at City Hall to make up a new eligibility list for appointment of city truck drivers. Eight applicants are expected to compete.

Chester Cleanup Ends And May Be Repeated In '65

The July cleanup campaign ended in Chester Wednesday night and Ronald Gibbs, chairman, termed it a success, said it should be an annual affair and added that all residents he contacted reported they would like to have it again.

Volunteers and Boy Scouts collected trash on Columbia Dr., California Ave., Virginia Ave. and Adolphus St. last night.

Gibbs said Boy Scout Troop 27, coordinated by Gene Davis, scout master, salvaged more than $35 from the soft drink bottles and papers they collected for a scout fund.

Gibbs said Chester residents "put the campaign over the top."

He expressed gratitude to Lester Bishop, city street commissioner, Bill Cornell, city garbage collector, and Walter Jordan, manager of the Monongahela Power Co., for the use of the three trucks. Over 16 loads of trash was hauled to the city dump.

The campaign was conducted in four phases with one each Wednesday night during July.

Others of Gibb's committee were Atty. Ruth Cox Turner and Jordan.

Thousands In Ohio

Auxiliaries Assist Police

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thousands of Ohioans who would have liked to become policemen, but didn't for one reason or another, are doing the next best thing — working as volunteer part-time police.

Together with several thousand more who are trying police work to see if they would like it as a full-time job and others who simply want to do something for their community, these would-be policemen make up the police, sheriff's and highway patrol auxiliaries in communities and counties across the state.

Working in most cases without pay, these auxiliaries are taking some of the burden off overtaxed police and sheriff's forces.

Mainly, they complement the regular force, handling jobs such as traffic control for parades and during holidays, working at football games and other sporting events.

In addition to these duties, auxiliaries quite often work with or fully make up rescue units and ride cruisers with regular officers. A few women auxiliaries generally are called upon as dispatchers.

Many of these jobs would have to be left undone or neglected without the police auxiliary since most law enforcement agencies are understaffed.

In Youngstown, for example, police officials acknowledge that night football would not be possible without the auxiliary since there aren't enough regular police to dispatch to produce adequate insurance against disturbances or riots.

Lt. A. E. (Buck) Remmert, who heads the auxiliary in Columbus, said most part-timers do not want to infringe on any overtime that might be due regulars "who most people feel are underpaid anyway. They realize that police work is bread and butter for the regulars, but only an outside activity for them."

Though commended for their work by police officials in all cities where there is an auxiliary, use of the part-timers is not without controversy.

Toledo Chief of Police Anthony A. Bosch says: "I'm against untrained and unpaid policemen. The present day police profession is a highly skilled, specialized and complex business. There is no room for amateurs."

Bosch, who heads a 539-man force, said he would like to add about 100 additional officers because annexations have greatly increased the population and area to be protected. But he says he would rather go with the present force than supplement the police division with citizen police.

Chief James R. Howerton of the Middletown police force voiced a similar opinion, saying: "There is no room for part-time employes in police work, just as there is no room for the part-time doctor of lawyer. There is a concerted effort around the country to upgrade police departments into a professional classification. Auxiliary policemen aren't going to help us. You just don't buy cheap law enforcement. You get what you pay for."

In Lima, volunteer units joined regular police in mock raid several years ago and a police officer was killed. The feeling still exists among many persons that his death was due to the bungling of civilian volunteers. The city no longer has an auxiliary force.

Numerous incidents of inexperienced auxiliary policemen being involved in and responsible for traffic snarls in Hamilton are listed as major reasons that city no longer has an auxiliary.

There was an incident in Stark County in 1959 where a young car theft suspect was wounded in the wrist by an auxiliary. The suspect and a companion were nabbed in a stolen car near the Summit-Stark County line and as the youths were being handcuffed, the auxiliary's gun went off. He said he had interpreted a move by one of the suspects as being an attempt to reach for a deputy's gun and that's why he shot.

A story is told in Columbus of an auxiliary policeman who chased a speeding motorist near the downtown area—gun drawn and waving it wildly.

Law enforcement officials favoring auxiliaries counter with stories of heroics by the part-timers.

Near Findlay, for example, a highway patrolman was shot and killed by a criminal who in turn was killed by the auxiliary riding in the cruiser.

A Columbus auxiliary once caught two gunmen.

The question of the use and effectiveness of citizen policemen has come to light with the formation of a citizen force in a section of Brooklyn, N. Y. The Crown Heights Police Association came into being to supplement regular law enforcement after several acts of violence on the city's streets. It works with, but is not supervised by or connected with the regular police force.

Its formation evoked bitter controversy over whether it was the place of the citizenry to attempt law enforcement on its own.

Many of the auxiliary forces in the state came into being during World War II when police manpower was at a low ebb.

Some of the forces disbanded after the war and others turned their attentions to civil defense work.

The part-timers in most cities receive training in all phases of police work—the same as received by regulars—only less of it.

Constantly stressed in the training is the fact that the auxiliary cannot take the law into his own hands, but only assist the patrolman to whom assigned.

In most cities, the auxiliary cannot make an arrest on his own unless the regular officer is unable to do so.

Columbus' Lt. Remmert said "the auxiliaries do good only when they realize what they are prepared for and don't overstep it. We've also got to be careful we don't get someone who just wants to be able to carry a gun."

Applicants in all communities are screened through background checks, personal interviews and references. Anyone convicted of a felony, and in some cities a major misdemeanor, or who is a member of a subversive group is automatically ineligible to serve.

More than half of the cities with auxiliaries do not allow the men to carry guns under any circumstances. Others, allow them to be armed when in full uniform.

Newark Police Chief L. L. Hall summed it up pretty well for those who favor using auxiliaries:

"With our manpower shortage, it would be impossible for the police department to operate effectively without the auxiliary."

City Trucker Hurt In Skid

A city resident was injured when his truck swerved out of control on rain-slicked Route 30 and overturned Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 near Chester, Hancock County sheriff's deputies reported.

William J. Simms, 57, of Logan St. told deputies he began to stop along the highway when his 1964 model truck swerved on wet pavement, went off the road and struck a sign of the West Virginia State Road Commission, then overturned.

Simms, a custodian at The Review, was treated at City Hospital for a deep laceration of the scalp and abrasions of the forehead. The accident happened 300 feet west of the junction of Route 30 and State Route 2 near Chester. The truck was demolished, deputies reported.

The sheriff's office also reported a two-car crash Wednesday morning at 9 on a narrow section of Gas Valley Rd., 600 feet west of Oak Glen High School in the Pughtown area.

Cars driven by Jerry L. Baxter, 17, of 807 Ridge Ave., New Cumberland, and Patricia L. Bruce, 23, of New Cumberland, R.D. 1, sideswiped on a section of Gas Valley Rd. only 13 feet wide, deputies said.

The cars were traveling in opposite directions, and each driver claimed his vehicle was off to the side as far as possible in attempts to avoid the collision. Neither was injured.

The commission pointed out the test was open to any resident of the school district, which takes in the city, all of Liverpool Township and part of St. Clair Township.

The commission will conduct an exam tonight at 7 in the Council chamber at City Hall to make up a new eligibility list for appointment of city truck drivers. Eight applicants are expected to compete.

Chester Cleanup Ends And May Be Repeated In '65

The July cleanup campaign ended in Chester Wednesday night and Ronald Gibbs, chairman, termed it a success, said it should be an annual affair and added that all residents he contacted reported they would like to have it again.

Volunteers and Boy Scouts collected trash on Columbia Dr., California Ave., Virginia Ave. and Adolphus St. last night.

Gibbs said Boy Scout Troop 27, coordinated by Gene Davis, scout master, salvaged more than $35 from the soft drink bottles and papers they collected for a scout fund.

Gibbs said Chester residents "put the campaign over the top."

He expressed gratitude to Lester Bishop, city street commissioner, Bill Cornell, city garbage collector, and Walter Jordan, manager of the Monongahela Power Co., for the use of the three trucks. Over 16 loads of trash was hauled to the city dump.

The campaign was conducted in four phases with one each Wednesday night during July.

Others of Gibb's committee were Atty. Ruth Cox Turner and Jordan.

Out of 447 high school and junior high school students initially enrolled in summer school, only about 408 will officially finish the eight-week program Friday, the East Liverpool High School office said today.

Courses taken by both high school and junior high school students included English, American history, world history, American government, economics and math.

They were attired in long pale-pink sheath peau de soie dresses with overskirt, and wore pink Dior bows with illusion veils. The bridesmaids carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations. Flowers of the matron of honor were white carnations.

The bride's mother chose a pale blue pure silk jacket-dress with white silk pillbox hat. The bridegroom's mother wore a pale pink linen sheath with a hat of pure silk roses in several shades of pink. Both wore orchid corsages.

Charles D. Schmitt of Midland, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Bernard P. Loftus, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Don Pickering of Midland, cousin of the bridegroom, James Compagnone of Wheeling, brother of the bride, William McGeehan of Midland and J. J. Lauer of Butler.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

'Crazy' Stays With Jackie

"When there's somebody nice, you stay with him," yelled Frank Fontaine, looking like a peach-colored elephant joke in his knitted peach shirt and his peach slacks and his wide peach-colored face.

Alan Gill

"He's my buddy," he went on in a cavernous boom. "We have a lotta fun together." Looking out his 40th-floor hotel window in New York, Fontaine gestured vaguely south toward Times Square and Miami, whence the Jackie Gleason show will emanate next season.

-:-

"DO YOU KNOW he's got a golf car with the name 'Crazy' Guggenham written on it just waiting for me down there? And a golf bag? And knickers? You stay with a guy like that!

"A watch maker has been after me with a $300,000 offer. Four Star wants me for a drama. But there's no time.

"I like to fish, but I'll take a whack at golf. I'll knock some shots that'll knock Jackie on his back. But he's a great putter. Arnold Palmer stands up there and watches Jackie sink one and says, 'I give up.'

"Most days I'm a happy-go-lucky guy like Jackie, but I've got my thin days and my fat days, too. I feel better when I'm thin; but sometimes, if I'm feelin' cranky, I eat and get jolly. 'Hey, Frankie!' "

FONTAINE suddenly bellowed, imitating Gleason. Then:

"Have you ever heard Jackie over there in his suite of offices at the Park Sheraton? He's got a loud speaker system that'd blast you outa yer socks. 'Hey, Frankie! You like to eat? Come on over!' And he's got 18 different dishes of Chinese food sent in. I've put on 20 pounds with this guy.

"Things have gone good since he took me on. I'm not rich, but I'm payin' the bills.

"I saw a lotta parents sending their one kid off to camp a few Sundays ago. I was standing there sending off four.

"Jackie's been good to me and 'Crazys' been good to me. I've brought up 11 children on this character from the days he was named John L. C. Sivoney, through the appearances with Sullivan, Peter Lind Hayes, 'The Morning Show,' Garry Moore, the specials and, now, Jackie. 'Crazy's' made a good buck for me. And when a guy's doing that, you don't get a new model.

"I DID 'CRAZY' that first season and it went very nicely. But then I said, 'Jackie, I do other things, too.' He said "M" And suddenly Fontaine's decibel count jumped. "He said, 'Why, you darned fool, they're buying it. Don't change it.' At the end of the second season, he said, 'It's just startin' to grow, kid.'

"Yah, 'Crazy's' been good to me. I don't dream about him, but he's part of my life, like a comfortable house. He's there. I made him up for kids 7, 8, 9 years old. But he caught on with grownups, too.

"Y' oughta see the tabs they're payin' to see "Crazy' downstairs, those grownups!"

And Fontaine gestured earthward, toward the Americana Hotel's Royal Box, where he then was playing.

HOW IS FONTAINE with kids?

"Oh, we have a ball. The train sets go up at Christmas and we're all down on the floor. Everybody's kids at heart. And some of us kids are entertainers. It's something born in your soul to be funny.

"That's why I'm here. In this building. This room. My father died at 8 o'clock one night. I had a show to do at 8:30. I said, 'No, I won't go on.' But then I thought that if my father heard me, he'd say, 'Frank, keep going.'

"I did. I thought that was the way my father wanted it to be."

Standing in his 40th-floor hotel suite, striding back and forth in his peach-colored tennis outfit, and making the curtains flutter in the sweet hurricane of his personality, Frank Fontaine is still going.

37th Division Pushes Smaller Unit Training

CAMP GRAYLING, Mich. (AP)—The emphasis on small unit training in the 37th Infantry Division's annual summer encampment here was greatly in evidence Wednesday and today during the visit of the first of several generals slated to inspect the Ohio division.

Moon Flight Poses Time Problem For Earth Men

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—What time will the first earth men on the moon go by?

That's perhaps a silly question, but there is a real problem—at least as top scientists see it—in getting a man from earth adjusted to time on the moon.

Man has had a biological clock built into him since his evolution. As he goes about his daily activities, his metabolism is geared to a 24-hour day.

Space medicine doctors are concerned with the lunar explorer's ability to adapt to conditions in which day and night, as we know them on earth, do not exist. For most of us, daytime and nighttime regulate our activities.

How will man adapt himself to conditions on the moon where one lunar day equals 29½ earth days?

A "moon clock"—adjusted so that time on the moon can be computed exactly into the same period as time on earth—is the answer, in the opinion of Dr. I.M. Levitt, astronomer and director of Philadelphia's Fels Planetarium.

He took his theories and calculations to Martin M. Decker, chairman of the board of the National Aeronautics Association and president of the Deck Corp. of Philadelphia.

Decker built the moon clock. It has two dials showing the Greenwich time on earth and the local time for a particular point on the moon.

A calendar is incorporated in the clock to show the date on the earth which will also be considered the date on the moon.

Decker thinks the United States will be the first nation to reach the moon, and "We will be up there within the next two or three years."

"Man will reach the moon very shortly and will live on the moon the same as we have done on the arctics and the North Pole," he predicts.

Rubber Contract Set

NEW YORK (AP)—Now it is up to 22,000 employes of United States Rubber Co. plants at Painesville, Ohio, and other parts of the nation to ratify a three-year contract with the company and the United Rubber Workers Union. Agreement on the new pact was announced Wednesday. No details were disclosed, but the company said it resembled recent settlements by other major rubber companies.

Youngstowner Killed

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Katherine Schulay, 48, of Youngstown, Ohio, was killed Wednesday and her husband and three other persons were injured in a headon collision on Ill. 6 near here. Injured were John Schulay, 58; Walter R. Bone 20, of Bardwell, Ky.; his wife, Janet, 18, and the Bones' 5-month-old daughter, Laura.

Out Of The Air

'Crazy' Stays With Jackie

"When there's somebody nice, you stay with him," yelled Frank Fontaine, looking like a peach-colored elephant joke in his knitted peach shirt and his peach slacks and his wide peach-colored face.

Alan Gill

"He's my buddy," he went on in a cavernous boom. "We have a lotta fun together." Looking out his 40th-floor hotel window in New York, Fontaine gestured vaguely south toward Times Square and Miami, whence the Jackie Gleason show will emanate next season.

-:-

DO YOU KNOW he's got a golf car with the name 'Crazy' Guggenham written on it just waiting for me down there? And a golf bag? And knickers? You stay with a guy like that!

"A watch maker has been after me with a $300,000 offer. Four Star wants me for a drama. But there's no time.

"I like to fish, but I'll take a whack at golf. I'll knock some shots that'll knock Jackie on his back. But he's a great putter. Arnold Palmer stands up there and watches Jackie sink one and says, 'I give up.'

"Most days I'm a happy-go-lucky guy like Jackie, but I've got my thin days and my fat days, too. I feel better when I'm thin; but sometimes, if I'm feelin' cranky, I eat and get jolly. 'Hey, Frankie!' "

FONTAINE suddenly bellowed, imitating Gleason. Then:

"Have you ever heard Jackie over there in his suite of offices at the Park Sheraton? He's got a loud speaker system that'd blast you outa yer socks. 'Hey, Frankie! You like to eat? Come on over!' And he's got 18 different dishes of Chinese food sent in. I've put on 20 pounds with this guy.

"Things have gone good since he took me on. I'm not rich, but I'm payin' the bills.

"I saw a lotta parents sending their one kid off to camp a few Sundays ago. I was standing there sending off four.

"Jackie's been good to me and 'Crazys' been good to me. I've brought up 11 children on this character from the days he was named John L. C. Sivoney, through the appearances with Sullivan, Peter Lind Hayes, 'The Morning Show,' Garry Moore, the specials and, now, Jackie. 'Crazy's' made a good buck for me. And when a guy's doing that, you don't get a new model.

"I DID 'CRAZY' that first season and it went very nicely. But then I said, 'Jackie, I do other things, too.' He said "M" And suddenly Fontaine's decibel count jumped. "He said, 'Why, you darned fool, they're buying it. Don't change it.' At the end of the second season, he said, 'It's just startin' to grow, kid.'

"Yah, 'Crazy's' been good to me. I don't dream about him, but he's part of my life, like a comfortable house. He's there. I made him up for kids 7, 8, 9 years old. But he caught on with grownups, too.

"Y' oughta see the tabs they're payin' to see "Crazy' downstairs, those grownups!"

And Fontaine gestured earthward, toward the Americana Hotel's Royal Box, where he then was playing.

HOW IS FONTAINE with kids?

"Oh, we have a ball. The train sets go up at Christmas and we're all down on the floor. Everybody's kids at heart. And some of us kids are entertainers. It's something born in your soul to be funny.

"That's why I'm here. In this building. This room. My father died at 8 o'clock one night. I had a show to do at 8:30. I said, 'No, I won't go on.' But then I thought that if my father heard me, he'd say, 'Frank, keep going.'

"I did. I thought that was the way my father wanted it to be."

Standing in his 40th-floor hotel suite, striding back and forth in his peach-colored tennis outfit, and making the curtains flutter in the sweet hurricane of his personality, Frank Fontaine is still going.

37th Division Pushes Smaller Unit Training

CAMP GRAYLING, Mich. (AP)—The emphasis on small unit training in the 37th Infantry Division's annual summer encampment here was greatly in evidence Wednesday and today during the visit of the first of several generals slated to inspect the Ohio division.

Four of the six field problems inspected by Maj. Gen. F. H. Britton, deputy commander of the 2nd Army, involved squad-sized units—the basis infantry unit. Two of the problems were joint tank-infantry attacks.

Ex-Disc Jockey Due Hearing On Probation

WHEELING (AP) — A probation hearing will be held Aug. 7 for Donn Caldwell, former Wheeling area disc jockey who pleaded guilty Wednesday to morals charges involving a 14-year-old girl.

Caldwell was sentenced to 1 to 10 years in prison on the charges when he appeared in Ohio County Intermediate Court. Dr. J. E. Lazaro, clinical director at Weston State Hospital, recommended probation for Caldwell.

Moon Flight Poses Time Problem For Earth Men

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—What time will the first earth men on the moon go by?

That's perhaps a silly question, but there is a real problem —at least as top scientists see it —in getting a man from earth adjusted to time on the moon.

Man has had a biological clock built into him since his evolution. As he goes about his daily activities, his metabolism is geared to a 24-hour day.

Space medicine doctors are concerned with the lunar explorer's ability to adapt to conditions in which day and night, as we know them on earth, do not exist. For most of us, daytime and nighttime regulate our activities.

How will man adapt himself to conditions on the moon where one lunar day equals 29½ earth days?

A "moon clock"—adjusted so that time on the moon can be computed exactly into the same period as time on earth—is the answer, in the opinion of Dr. I.M. Levitt, astronomer and director of Philadelphia's Fels Planetarium.

He took his theories and calculations to Martin M. Decker, chairman of the board of the National Aeronautics Association and president of the Deck Corp. of Philadelphia.

Decker built the moon clock. It has two dials showing the Greenwich time on earth and the local time for a particular point on the moon.

The position of the sun at any moment, even when it is below the horizon during the lunar night, is shown on a scale which marks off the 29½ lunar days to one earth day.

A calendar is incorporated in the clock to show the date on the earth which will also be considered the date on the moon.

Decker thinks the United States will be the first nation to reach the moon, and "We will be up there within the next two or three years."

"Man will reach the moon very shortly and will live on the moon the same as we have done on the arctics and the North Pole," he predicts.

Word Warfare Should Be Halted

Dr. Garry Myers

You and I have heard some children talk in very ugly words and ways to their parents. Sometimes it's the child's habitual way; sometimes it occurs only at moments of great provocation. Usually such ugly words are matched in kind by one or both parents. Parents who don't wish their child to talk back to them, or talk to them in angry, ugly words and tones, should first make sure that they never speak to him in like manner.

The whole problem of word-warfare between child and parent begins and continues because of unwise and ineffectual parental management. Children learn early to respect the little word No, rarely said by parents who are fair and just, who exercise great self - control in a family atmosphere of understanding and love. These parents rarely or never hear disrespectful words from their children.

THE FOLLOWING letter came from a mother in Missouri. "Our son, 11 years of age, has no respect for us. He tells us we are rotten, and that he'll beat us up when he gets bigger. We whipped him when he was smaller, but to no avail. Now we usually take away his BB gun and don't allow him to watch TV. This helps to a certain extent.

"We have two girls, 9 and 7. He always heckles them and looks for trouble. He says I don't know anything about boys because I had no brothers. My husband was the only child in his family, too.

"We treat all three children the same. We live on a farm and have a happy life, but not much money. Will our son respect us in later years? What can be done to help this situation now?"

My reply in part: It's distressing to read what your boy says to you, but I wonder if he doesn't say these ugly things when you parents are angry, too—when you may say some ugly things to him. Aim to be consistent in discipline with yourselves and with each other.

IF YOU were in his place you possibly would feel that you were not loved nearly as much as the younger children are and you would heckle them and tease them, too. They probably torment him. Teach them to mind their own business and help this older boy to cultivate friends of his own age.

I think Dad can do most for that boy by going places with him, taking other boys along, having good times with him and making him feel more worthwhile in the home, playing up his good qualities and successes. I believe you can then hope that he will respect you both in later years. I'll bet this boy has a heart of gold.

My bulletins, "Preventing and Reducing Jealousy" and "A Parent's Prayer," may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Deadline Due On Employer Tax Payment

The deadline falls Friday for employers to remit the second quarterly installment of city income taxes withheld from payrolls, Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson reminded today.

The remittances are due from 579 employers in all, representing taxes withheld from payrolls for April, May and June, he explained. The payment deadline always falls 30 days after the end of the quarter, Wilkinson pointed out.

The law affects any employer with one or more persons on his payroll. "Quite a few" have not filed, but experience has shown that a large percentage of the payments are made on the final day, Wilkinson said. He said he expects a large number of the returns in the mail tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the office at City Hall mailed the second delinquent notices today to individuals who failed to pay the second quarterly installment on estimated taxes for 1964 before the deadline June 30.

Individual returns are required for the most part of persons who live in East Liverpool but work in communities where their wages are not subject to withholding. They have an option of paying the entire amount due when filing the estimate or remitting in quarterly installments.

The first delinquent notices were sent to the individuals the first week of July, Wilkinson said.

Wilkinson said "quite a few" individuals are late in making the second quarterly installment. It also covers April, May and June.

President Urges Farm Prosperity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson advised the National Agricultural Advisory Commission Wednesday to put partisanship and prejudice aside to improve prosperity on the nation's farms.

"The time has come," the President said, "to find and put to use some better answers to farm policy than we have had in many years."

Addressing the group at the White House, Johnson said farmers have been getting good news about agriculture lately including increased exports, higher net income and higher profits.

He added that he believes this good news can be made even better. "America is prospering," he said. "Our goal and our guide must be to make sure that America's farmers prosper in proportion, too."

The root system of the giant redwood trees of California is surprisingly shallow. But the roots are so widespread that one tree's roots may spread over an acre of land.

Man Pays Mere $35 For School Worth $1 Million

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP) — Somebody goofed in this northern Ohio city, and Adam Gadanac Sr. wound up buying a $1-million elementary school for $35.

"I don't know all the legal aspects of the deal," School Board president Richard P. Culbertson said Wednesday, "but right now it looks like Gadanac owns the school."

Culbertson said the board thought it had acquired the Woodford Elementary School site in 1955, but apparently the purchase never was completed. Finally, after unpaid tax bills piled up, the county placed the four-acre lot on the auction block and Gadanac bought the property.

Gadanac said he'll give the city back its school, but he wants to know who made the mistake.

"A couple of million-dollar mistakes like this and what would happen to the City of Barberton?"

Vacation Set By Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP) Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, counting on new-look campaign debates with President Johnson, begins a week-long California vacation today.

The Arizona senator will fly west aboard a private plane. Aides said he wants the journey to be a vacation trip and nothing else.

Goldwater's first California stop is an exclusive, 2,600-acre retreat called Bohemian Grove, 80 miles north of San Francisco.

The senator plans to stay there through Saturday as the guest of retired Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer. The retreat is divided into about 125 separate camps. Goldwater will be stopping at one called the Caveman Club.

On Saturday, Goldwater plans to fly to Newport Beach, south of Los Angeles, to rest with his wife, who is vacationing there.

Student Bound Over For Stabbing Of Girl

CLEVELAND (AP) — Danny L. Thompson of Marion, an Ohio University senior, was bound over to the grand jury Wednesday on a charge of stabbing to wound.

Homicide detectives said Thompson, 22, admitted stabbing Dianne Pollitt of Lakewood, a 20-year-old Ohio U. coed, with a hunting knife Monday because she refused to date him any more.

Miss Pollitt was treated at Lakewood Hospital for wounds in the chest, back, abdomen and right arm.

Detectives said Dianne, a junior at Ohio U., had driven to the house where Thompson was staying to reclaim a picture and was stabbed in the living room. Thompson took her to the hospital, where he was arrested.

Thompson has been working on a steel construction job in Niles this summer.

New Miss USA Seeks Universe Crown At Miami

She probably is one of the calmest beauty winners on record. Eight thousand people watched her step smoothly from the line of 15 semifinalists and receive the Miss USA crown without a tear.

Bobbi's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duane B. Johnson, kissed her backstage, told her she had had some "tough competition," then set about congratulating the runnersup:

Tall Diane Balloun, Houston, Texas, first runnerup; Patricia Marlin, Fairbanks, Alaska, second; Janet Joy Erickson, Salt Lake City, third, and Johnna Ruth Reid, Paducah, Ky.

The winner's eye-catching dimensions, 35-22-35, are more than skin deep. Bobbi is a National Science Foundation scholar and attended the University of Kansas last year as an honors program mathematics major. She wants to program electronic computers.

One of Bobbi's most talked about experiences is her serenade from Ricky Nelson, singing son of Ozzie and Harriet.

"He crowned me Kansas City Auto Show Queen of 1963. He kissed me and he serenaded me," she said hesitantly. "He was very nice."

The deadline falls Friday for employers to remit the second quarterly installment of city income taxes withheld from payrolls, Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson reminded today.

The remittances are due from 579 employers in all, representing taxes withheld from payrolls for April, May and June, he explained. The payment deadline always falls 30 days after the end of the quarter, Wilkinson pointed out.

The law affects any employer with one or more persons on his payroll. "Quite a few" have not filed, but experience has shown that a large percentage of the payments are made on the final day, Wilkinson said. He said he expects a large number of the returns in the mail tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the office at City Hall mailed the second delinquent notices today to individuals who failed to pay the second quarterly installment on estimated taxes for 1964 before the deadline June 30.

Individual returns are required for the most part of persons who live in East Liverpool but work in communities where their wages are not subject to withholding. They have an option of paying the entire amount due when filing the estimate or remitting in quarterly installments.

The first delinquent notices were sent to the individuals the first week of July, Wilkinson said.

Wilkinson said "quite a few" individuals are late in making the second quarterly installment. It also covers April, May and June.

President Urges Farm Prosperity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson advised the National Agricultural Advisory Commission Wednesday to put partisanship and prejudice aside to improve prosperity on the nation's farms.

"The time has come," the President said, "to find and put to use some better answers to farm policy than we have had in many years."

Addressing the group at the White House, Johnson said farmers have been getting good news about agriculture lately including increased exports, higher net income and higher profits.

He added that he believes this good news can be made even better. "America is prospering," he said. "Our goal and our guide must be to make sure that America's farmers prosper in proportion, too."

The root system of the giant redwood trees of California is surprisingly shallow. But the roots are so widespread that one tree's roots may spread over an acre of land.

Man Pays Mere $35 For School Worth $1 Million

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP) — Somebody goofed in this northern Ohio city, and Adam Gadanac Sr. wound up buying a $1-million elementary school for $35.

"I don't know all the legal aspects of the deal," School Board president Richard P. Culbertson said Wednesday, "but right now it looks like Gadanac owns the school."

Culbertson said the board thought it had acquired the Woodford Elementary School site in 1955, but apparently the purchase never was completed. Finally, after unpaid tax bills piled up, the county placed the four-acre lot on the auction block and Gadanac bought the property.

Gadanac said he'll give the city back its school, but he wants to know who made the mistake.

"A couple of million-dollar mistakes like this and what would happen to the City of Barberton?"

Vacation Set By Goldwater

The Arizona senator will fly west aboard a private plane. Aides said he wants the journey to be a vacation trip and nothing else.

Goldwater's first California stop is an exclusive, 2,600-acre retreat called Bohemian Grove, 80 miles north of San Francisco.

The senator plans to stay there through Saturday as the guest of retired Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer. The retreat is divided into about 125 separate camps. Goldwater will be stopping at one called the Caveman Club.

On Saturday, Goldwater plans to fly to Newport Beach, south of Los Angeles, to rest with his wife, who is vacationing there.

Student Bound Over For Stabbing Of Girl

CLEVELAND (AP) — Danny L. Thompson of Marion, an Ohio University senior, was bound over to the grand jury Wednesday on a charge of stabbing to wound.

Homicide detectives said Thompson, 22, admitted stabbing Dianne Pollitt of Lakewood, a 20-year-old Ohio U. coed, with a hunting knife Monday because she refused to date him any more.

Detectives said Dianne, a junior at Ohio U., had driven to the house where Thompson was staying to reclaim a picture and was stabbed in the living room. Thompson took her to the hospital, where he was arrested.

Thompson has been working on a steel construction job in Niles this summer.

She probably is one of the calmest beauty winners on record. Eight thousand people watched her step smoothly from the line of 15 semifinalists and receive the Miss USA crown without a tear.

Bobbi's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duane B. Johnson, kissed her backstage, told her she had had some "tough competition," then set about congratulating the runnersup:

The winner's eye-catching dimensions, 35-22-35, are more than skin deep. Bobbi is a National Science Foundation scholar and attended the University of Kansas last year as an honors program mathematics major. She wants to program electronic computers.

"He crowned me Kansas City Auto Show Queen of 1963. He kissed me and he serenaded me," she said hesitantly. "He was very nice."

Picnic, Tour Planned

LISBON — A picnic and a tour of Mill Creek Park in Youngstown are scheduled Wednesday by the Salem and Perry Township Home Demonstration Group. Members will meet at 10 a. m. at Less's Market on the Washingtonville Hill to begin the trip. Miss Ann Overturf, associate county agent in home economics, said members should take a coverdish and table service.

State Urges Lookout For Bad Checks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An urgent plea has gone out from the state auditor's office to law enforcement agencies, banks and merchants to be on the lookout for $437,806 in faulty unsigned state checks.

State Auditor Roger W. Tracy issued the plea Wednesday after it was discovered that 17 of the 1,576 checks had been cashed in the Columbus area for a total of $2,442.

Tracy also asked the Highway Patrol and the Columbus Police Department for an immediate investigation to find the remaining checks.

The bad checks apparently were stolen from the states data processing center here, Tracy said. He said the checks had faulty punches on them when they were originally processed and should have been destroyed but that "a careless employe" apparently failed to do so.

Tracy said all the checks cashed Wednesday had his name forged on them. He added that many of the checks would be difficult to cash without proper identification because they were made out to firms and offices the state does business with.

Tracy learned early Wednesday that several checks had been presented to Columbus merchants and business houses for payment. It was his first hint of the missing checks.

He has asked all Columbus banks, the state treasurer's office, the Columbus Clearing House Association, the Ohio Bankers Association and the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants to watch for the faulty checks.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1619, the first American representative legislature assembled at Jamestown, Va. It was called the House of Burgesses.

On this date:

In 1909, the U.S. government bought its first airplane, built by the Wright brothers to meet military specifications.

Ten years ago — The White House announced that President Dwight D. Eisenhower has praised the Suez agreement between Britain and Egypt and had promised aid to Egypt upon conclusion of the pact.

Five years ago — The Laotian government reported Communist-led guerrillas armed by North Viet Nam were attacking army posts in northern Laos.

One year ago — The U.N. Security Council asked for an embargo on arms shipments to Portugal for use in maintaining rule over her African territories.

Deckhand Drowns

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — Dragging operations were to resume today for Robert Roth, about 34, of Hannibal, Ohio, a deckhand who fell from the tow Winnie May and disappeared in the Ohio River. He was riding at the head of the boat when he fell in Wednesday.

Fire Destroys Shed, Garage

Fire blamed on spontaneous combustion destroyed a frame garage and shed and the contents of a vehicle and hay Wednesday afternoon about 1 at a Chester area farm.

Firemen set the loss at $800 to contents, and $500 to the buildings. Oyster said the loss was not covered by insurance, firemen reported.

The buildings were leveled by the time the department arrived but firemen succeeded in saving the barn 30 feet away and the contents of hay, straw and two tractors. The heat was intense and clouds of steam rose from the barn as firemen played water on the structure.

One truck and 14 firemen, including Capt. Jerrold Wilson, responded to the alarm. The Oyster farm is off Middle Run Rd.

50 Reported Murdered In Africa Spree

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — Terrified refugees say warriors of the fanatic Lumpa religious sect speared 50 African men to death in two North Rhodesian villages, drove the surviving women and children into grass huts and burned them alive.

The refugees from neighboring villages said 200 men, women and children died in the slaughter at Chipwata and Etmabundo, near the sect's headquarters in the northeast sector of this central African British territory.

Some 1,600 Africans fled Wednesday to the mission station at Mulanga, 20 miles away, seeking protection from the disciples of Lumpa "prophetess" Alice Lenshima who have been on a rampage of murder, arson and looting for more than a week.

Previously the government had reported 41 dead, including 30 Lumpas.

Troops stood guard over the refugees while the rest of a 1,200-man force of troops and police prepared a full-scale attack on the marauders. Prime Minister Kenneth Kaunda, head of Northern Rhodesia's first all-African government promised: "There will be no appeasement of the sect."

Alice Lenshima, a matronly woman in her 40s, was reported holed up in Kasomo village, six miles from Chinsali. Government officials were reported unwilling to capture her for fear of setting off more violence.

Russia Won't Change Policy On U.N. Debts

MOSCOW (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said today the Soviet Union apparently is sticking to its decision not to pay the $52.6 million it owes for U.N. peacekeeping operations.

Thant discussed the matter Tuesday and Wednesday with Premier Khrushchev and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"I did not get the impression that the Soviet government is prepared to change its policy on this matter," Thant said.

Proposal Made For Redistricting Ohio Legislature

CLEVELAND (AP)—A plan that would reduce by 36 the number of state representatives elected in November has been proposed in federal court by James D. Nolan, who won the original taxpayer's suit in the Ohio reapportionment case.

The proposal filed in U.S. District Court in Columbus Wednesday by attorneys who represented Nolan in the case, would reduce the 137-seat house to 101 members.

The proposal would not require new primary elections. However, some candidates nominated in the May primaries would run as at-large candidates in the districts proposed by Nolan's attorneys.

The proposal calls for reversion to the system of electing state representatives before the so - called Hanna Amendment modified the state constitution in 1903. Under the original 1851 formula, apportionment is accomplished in the following manner:

The state population is divided by 100, and the figure obtained is designated as "one ratio." Every county having at least half of one ratio is entitled to one seat in the house. If the county has less than half a ratio, it should be districted with the adjoining county of least population.

Under this formula, only 40 of Ohio's 88 counties have large enough populations to be entitled to seats in the House. However, the Hanna Amendment required that each county have at least one representative, regardless of population. The Supreme Court ruled, in effect, that this amendment was unconstitutional.

Rainstorm Blamed In Empire Area Crash

One of the several thunderstorms that hit at various locations in the area Wednesday was blamed for a traffic accident yesterday afternoon at 2:30 on Route 152 three-tenths a mile west of Empire.

He was headed west when he ran into the heavy downpour. He applied his brakes to slow and slid sideways off the road into a power pole, officers reported. His 1963 sedan was heavily damaged but he escaped injury.

The 17-year-old youth was about 100 yards offshore when he went under. A friend, William Pearce, 17, heard McGuire call for help and tried unsuccessfully to aid him.

Ohio Shows Jobless Rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The number of unemployed workers in Ohio rose from 135,000 to 154,000 in June, but the increase is seasonal and not as bad as a year ago, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports.

The bureau blames an influx of graduating students and summer workers for the increase in unemployment, which rose from 3.5 per cent of the labor force to 3.9 per cent.

The total civilian labor force in June was an estimated 3,976,000 persons, the bureau said Wednesday. The current 3.9 per cent rate of unemployment compares with an estimated 4.5 per cent a year ago, the BUC said.

During June, the bureau reported, total employment gained 1.3 per cent to 3,823,000.

Non - agricultural wage and salary employment totaled 3,216,000, up 1 per cent from May; Ohio manufacturers employed 1,241,000 in June, up .3 per cent from the previous month, and employment in nonmanufacturing in June was at a new high of 1,975,000, up 1.5 per cent from May, the bureau said.

The gross of $121.88 a week in June for a work week averaging 41.8 hours by production workers in Ohio factories was a slight improvement over May, the bureau said, while the average weekly earnings of factory workers is up $3 from June 1963, due primarily to wage increases.

Agnes Sorel, a famous beauty of the French court who lived in the time of Joan of Arc, was one of the first women to wear diamonds lavishly.

Actress, 66, Dies

State Urges Lookout For Bad Checks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An urgent plea has gone out from the state auditor's office to law enforcement agencies, banks and merchants to be on the lookout for $437,806 in faulty unsigned state checks.

State Auditor Roger W. Tracy issued the plea Wednesday after it was discovered that 17 of the 1,576 checks had been cashed in the Columbus area for a total of $2,442.

Tracy also asked the Highway Patrol and the Columbus Police Department for an immediate investigation to find the remaining checks.

The bad checks apparently were stolen from the states data processing center here, Tracy said. He said the checks had faulty punches on them when they were originally processed and should have been destroyed but that "a careless employe" apparently failed to do so.

Tracy said all the checks cashed Wednesday had his name forged on them. He added that many of the checks would be difficult to cash without proper identification because they were made out to firms and offices the state does business with.

Numbers of the missing checks range from 3,050,729 to 3,052,305, Tracy said.

Tracy learned early Wednesday that several checks had been presented to Columbus merchants and business houses for payment. It was his first hint of the missing checks.

He has asked all Columbus banks, the state treasurer's office, the Columbus Clearing House Association, the Ohio Bankers Association and the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants to watch for the faulty checks.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1909, the U.S. government bought its first airplane, built by the Wright brothers to meet military specifications.

Ten years ago — The White House announced that President Dwight D. Eisenhower has praised the Suez agreement between Britain and Egypt and had promised aid to Egypt upon conclusion of the pact.

Five years ago — The Laotian government reported Communist-led guerrillas armed by North Viet Nam were attacking army posts in northern Laos.

One year ago — The U.N. Security Council asked for an embargo on arms shipments to Portugal for use in maintaining rule over her African territories.

Deckhand Drowns

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — Dragging operations were to resume today for Robert Roth, about 34, of Hannibal, Ohio, a deckhand who fell from the tow Winnie May and disappeared in the Ohio River. He was riding at the head of the boat when he fell in Wednesday.

Fire Destroys Shed, Garage

Fire blamed on spontaneous combustion destroyed a frame garage and shed and the contents of a vehicle and hay Wednesday afternoon about 1 at a Chester area farm.

Firemen set the loss at $800 to contents, and $500 to the buildings. Oyster said the loss was not covered by insurance, firemen reported.

The buildings were leveled by the time the department arrived but firemen succeeded in saving the barn 30 feet away and the contents of hay, straw and two tractors. The heat was intense and clouds of steam rose from the barn as firemen played water on the structure.

One truck and 14 firemen, including Capt. Jerrold Wilson, responded to the alarm. The Oyster farm is off Middle Run Rd.

50 Reported Murdered In Africa Spree

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — Terrified refugees say warriors of the fanatic Lumpa religious sect speared 50 African men to death in two North Rhodesian villages, drove the surviving women and children into grass huts and burned them alive.

The refugees from neighboring villages said 200 men, women and children died in the slaughter at Chipwata and Etmabundo, near the sect's headquarters in the northeast sector of this central African British territory.

Some 1,600 Africans fled Wednesday to the mission station at Mulanga, 20 miles away, seeking protection from the disciples of Lumpa "prophetess" Alice Lenshima who have been on a rampage of murder, arson and looting for more than a week.

Previously the government had reported 41 dead, including 30 Lumpas.

Troops stood guard over the refugees while the rest of a 1,200-man force of troops and police prepared a full-scale attack on the marauders. Prime Minister Kenneth Kaunda, head of Northern Rhodesia's first all-African government promised: "There will be no appeasement of the sect."

Alice Lenshima, a matronly woman in her 40s, was reported holed up in Kasomo village, six miles from Chinsali. Government officials were reported unwilling to capture her for fear of setting off more violence.

Russia Won't Change Policy On U.N. Debts

MOSCOW (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said today the Soviet Union apparently is sticking to its decision not to pay the $52.6 million it owes for U.N. peacekeeping operations.

Thant discussed the matter Tuesday and Wednesday with Premier Khrushchev and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"I did not get the impression that the Soviet government is prepared to change its policy on this matter," Thant said.

Proposal Made For Redistricting Ohio Legislature

CLEVELAND (AP)—A plan that would reduce by 36 the number of state representatives elected in November has been proposed in federal court by James D. Nolan, who won the original taxpayer's suit in the Ohio reapportionment case.

The proposal filed in U.S. District Court in Columbus Wednesday by attorneys who represented Nolan in the case, would reduce the 137-seat house to 101 members.

The proposal would not require new primary elections. However, some candidates nominated in the May primaries would run as at-large candidates in the districts proposed by Nolan's attorneys.

The proposal calls for reversion to the system of electing state representatives before the so - called Hanna Amendment modified the state constitution in 1903. Under the original 1851 formula, apportionment is accomplished in the following manner:

The state population is divided by 100, and the figure obtained is designated as "one ratio." Every county having at least half of one ratio is entitled to one seat in the house. If the county has less than half a ratio, it should be districted with the adjoining county of least population.

Under this formula, only 40 of Ohio's 88 counties have large enough populations to be entitled to seats in the House. However, the Hanna Amendment required that each county have at least one representative, regardless of population. The Supreme Court ruled, in effect, that this amendment was unconstitutional.

Rainstorm Blamed In Empire Area Crash

One of the several thunderstorms that hit at various locations in the area Wednesday was blamed for a traffic accident yesterday afternoon at 2:30 on Route 152 three-tenths a mile west of Empire.

He was headed west when he ran into the heavy downpour. He applied his brakes to slow and slid sideways off the road into a power pole, officers reported. His 1963 sedan was heavily damaged but he escaped injury.

Boy Drowns In Lake Off Unguarded Beach

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lawrence McGuire of Cleveland drowned in Lake Erie while swimming off an unguarded beach Wednesday.

The 17-year-old youth was about 100 yards offshore when he went under. A friend, William Pearce, 17, heard McGuire call for help and tried unsuccessfully to aid him.

Ohio Shows Jobless Rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The number of unemployed workers in Ohio rose from 135,000 to 154,000 in June, but the increase is seasonal and not as bad as a year ago, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports.

The bureau blames an influx of graduating students and summer workers for the increase in unemployment, which rose from 3.5 per cent of the labor force to 3.9 per cent.

The total civilian labor force in June was an estimated 3,976,000 persons, the bureau said Wednesday. The current 3.9 per cent rate of unemployment compares with an estimated 4.5 per cent a year ago, the BUC said.

During June, the bureau reported, total employment gained 1.3 per cent to 3,823,000.

Non - agricultural wage and salary employment totaled 3,216,000, up 1 per cent from May; Ohio manufacturers employed 1,241,000 in June, up .3 per cent from the previous month, and employment in nonmanufacturing in June was at a new high of 1,975,000, up 1.5 per cent from May, the bureau said.

The gross of $121.88 a week in June for a work week averaging 41.8 hours by production workers in Ohio factories was a slight improvement over May, the bureau said, while the average weekly earnings of factory workers is up $3 from June 1963, due primarily to wage increases.

Agnes Sorel, a famous beauty of the French court who lived in the time of Joan of Arc, was one of the first women to wear diamonds lavishly.

Actress, 66, Dies

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: We are middle-class people of modest means. My husband's take-home pay is slightly under $118 a week. It's not easy to manage today on his salary. Fortunately, we own our home free and clear and the company provides us with a car or we couldn't make it.

The problem is that my husband insists on giving our 14-year-old son $10 a week to spend on anything he wants. This does not include clothing, school supplies or tickets to sports events.

I've told him this is not right, but he says, "Money gives people confidence. When I was a kid I was so ashamed of not having a nickel in my pocket I swore it never would happen to my son."

Last night I sat down with the boy and asked him to tell me what he had done with his week's allowance. Almost all of it was spent treating friends to sodas, sundaes, hamburgers and movies. My husband says this is 'generous." I say the boy is trying to buy popularity.

May I hear what you have to say? Could I be wrong? — MINORITY OF ONE.

Dear Minority: I hope you can get an outsider to talk to your husband before he ruins his son for life.

Teen-agers who are handed a large allowance just for breathing, grow up spoiled, lazy and with no motivation to achieve anything through work.

Your son is not making friends. He is supporting leeches. Please urge your husband to seek some professional help or he may wind up giving the boy money for the rest of his life.

Mate Bait

Dear Ann: I'm 22 and the only girl in our crowd who is not married. I pretend I'm fussy but the truth of the matter is nobody ever has asked me — until Bennie.

Bennie works as a waiter in a cafe where I'm assistant cashier. He is 28, handsome, has been married twice but has no children. The big problem is that Bennie drinks too much and doesn't remember what he says.

Last weekend he said he had to go see his sister in Martins Ferry but it turned out he took off for the lake with the blonde hat check girl. When I asked him about this he said he sees her occasionally for "kicks" and that if I would marry him he'd quit drinking and straighten around.

You always say in your column people drink because they are unhappy. Do you think if I married Bennie I could make him happy and he would stop drinking? Please help me. —DOTTIE.

Dear Dottie: Marriage never cured a drinking problem yet. If Bennie is looking for "kicks" I suggest you kick him in the direction of Alcoholics Anonymous. If he proves he can stay off the sauce for one solid year then you might risk marriage.

Odds Too High

Dear Ann: I don't care if you call me a lousy sport, a cheapskate or just plain dumb, but please tell me how to handle this.

Every day four of us guys flip a coin to see who pays for the 10 o'clock coffee. I've kept track just for the heck of it and I lose five times out of six. This seems like an unusually high percentage.

I don't see how anybody possibly could rig a flipped coin, yet I think there's something fishy about it.

I'm tired of being a sucker but I don't know how to get out of it. Where's the out? — BUSTED.

Dear Bus: I don't know how anyone could rig a flipped coin either, but I'm sure there's a way — and if there is, somebody knows it. I DO know, however, that you are even before you flip. So why not say, "Count me out, fellas," pay for your own coffee and let them pay for theirs?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Do Your Shopping After A Good Meal

Today we have an unprecedented abundance of good food the year around, plus convenience foods with built-in maid service. From the minute we approach the electronic eye that automatically opens the door of the supermarket, we are confronted with a vast array of inviting foods of all varieties. With everything packaged, canned, ready-mixed, or frozen, food preparation is nothing like the work it used to be. Yet these foods furnish just as many calories as in the days when we started all recipes from scratch.

Ida Jean Kain

Shopping rule one: Do your shopping after you have had a good meal. An empty stomach has no calorie conscience. It's hunger that leads to impulse buying.

PLAN BALANCED meals, make out your grocery list and limit your shopping to this list.

You know how to spare the calories in meal planning. So build each meal on a high grade protein food — lean meat, fish or chicken, cheese or cottage cheese, plus two cups of milk, skim milk or buttermilk for the day. Include only one starchy food at a meal — a potato, bread, corn or rice. In the day's pattern include a green or yellow vegetable, a leafy green salad and two or more fruits, plus a cereal, bread, salad oil, and margarine or butter.

At the Meat Counter: Choose beef, lean portions; lamb and veal, lean cuts; lean ham; liver, any type; frankfurters, bologna, Canadian style bacon and luncheon meats; chicken and turkey.

From the Fish List: Cod, haddock, halibut, flounder or sole, sea trout, perch, and tuna fish, water packed. Sea foods: crabmeat, lobster, shrimp, oysters and clams.

MILK GROUP: Skim milk or buttermilk for drinking, whole milk for cereals. Cheese and cottage cheese, yogurt made from part skim milk; dry skim milk for whipped toppings and for use in recipes.

Bread and Cereal Group: Ready-to-eat cereals, not the sugar-coated varieties, cooked cereals. Bread, thinly sliced, white, whole grain or rye; pretzels, graham crackers. In the cake line, angel food and sponge.

From the dietetic food shelf you may wish to choose a low-calorie dressing, a non-nutritive sweetener, and fruits sweetened artificially. Take home a carton of soft drinks, low-calorie style.

Get into the habit of shopping for healthy leanness. You'll live to eat longer.

Send stamped, self-addressed long envelope for Revised Calorie Chart. Address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of The Review. Post card requests cannot be answered.

City Crash Damages Wellsville Area Auto

A Wellsville district driver told police his auto was damaged in a hit-skip accident Wednesday at 3:17 p. m. on Pennsylvania Ave. at Virginia Ave., East End.

Lawrence Serafy, 25, of Wellsville R. D. 1 told Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes he was driving east on Pennsylvania Ave. when the other auto pulled out of Virginia Ave. and hit the right rear of his 1964 sedan.

The unidentified driver did not stop, Serafy said. He furnished police with a license number and description of the other car, a 1961 compact. Police traced the registration to a St. George St. resident, but said the car's owner was not at the wheel at the time of the crash.

Crash Kills Boy, 4

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Duane Anderson, 4, of near Hilliard was injured fatally Wednesday when the car he was in struck a tree on a road north of that Franklin County community.

Legion Post Hears Report

James Cregar, commander, Louis Provost, Robert Poynter and Robert Milne reported on the state convention last weekend at the meeting of American Legion Post 374 Monday night in the East End home. Others attending were Robert Landfried, John Long, James Wallover and Clifford Frederick.

The convention passed resolutions against any change in the pledge of allegiance to the flag and for voluntary prayers in the public schools.

Cregar said the County 40 & 8 Voiture's French train was delayed 22 hours on the trip back from Cincinnati by a breakdown of the truck near Mansfield.

Midland Man Named In District Lions Post

Odds Too High

Dear Ann: I don't care if you call me a lousy sport, a cheapskate or just plain dumb, but please tell me how to handle this.

Every day four of us guys flip a coin to see who pays for the 10 o'clock coffee. I've kept track just for the heck of it and I lose five times out of six. This seems like an unusually high percentage.

I don't see how anybody possibly could rig a flipped coin, yet I think there's something fishy about it.

Dear Bus: I don't know how anyone could rig a flipped coin either, but I'm sure there's a way — and if there is, somebody knows it. I DO know, however, that you are even before you flip. So why not say, "Count me out, fellas," pay for your own coffee and let them pay for theirs?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Do Your Shopping After A Good Meal

Today we have an unprecedented abundance of good food the year around, plus convenience foods with built-in maid service. From the minute we approach the electronic eye that automatically opens the door of the supermarket, we are confronted with a vast array of inviting foods of all varieties. With everything packaged, canned, ready-mixed, or frozen, food preparation is nothing like the work it used to be. Yet these foods furnish just as many calories as in the days when we started all recipes from scratch.

Ida Jean Kain

Shopping rule one: Do your shopping after you have had a good meal. An empty stomach has no calorie conscience. It's hunger that leads to impulse buying.

PLAN BALANCED meals, make out your grocery list and limit your shopping to this list.

You know how to spare the calories in meal planning. So build each meal on a high grade protein food — lean meat, fish or chicken, cheese or cottage cheese, plus two cups of milk, skim milk or buttermilk for the day. Include only one starchy food at a meal — a potato, bread, corn or rice. In the day's pattern include a green or yellow vegetable, a leafy green salad and two or more fruits, plus a cereal, bread, salad oil, and margarine or butter.

At the Meat Counter: Choose beef, lean portions; lamb and veal, lean cuts; lean ham; liver, any type; frankfurters, bologna, Canadian style bacon and luncheon meats; chicken and turkey.

From the Fish List: Cod, haddock, halibut, flounder or sole, sea trout, perch, and tuna fish, water packed. Sea foods: crabmeat, lobster, shrimp, oysters and clams.

Vegetable and Fruit Group: All vegetables, fresh or frozen, avoiding those frozen in rich sauces; fresh fruits, fruit juices, and canned fruits, avoiding fruits canned in heavy syrup.

MILK GROUP: Skim milk or buttermilk for drinking, whole milk for cereals. Cheese and cottage cheese, yogurt made from part skim milk; dry skim milk for whipped toppings and for use in recipes.

Bread and Cereal Group: Ready-to-eat cereals, not the sugar-coated varieties, cooked cereals. Bread, thinly sliced, white, whole grain or rye; pretzels, graham crackers. In the cake line, angel food and sponge.

From the dietetic food shelf you may wish to choose a low-calorie dressing, a non-nutritive sweetener, and fruits sweetened artificially. Take home a carton of soft drinks, low-calorie style.

Get into the habit of shopping for healthy leanness. You'll live to eat longer.

Send stamped, self-addressed long envelope for Revised Calorie Chart. Address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of The Review. Post card requests cannot be answered.

The convention passed resolutions against any change in the pledge of allegiance to the flag and for voluntary prayers in the public schools.

Cregar said the County 40 & 8 Voiture's French train was delayed 22 hours on the trip back from Cincinnati by a breakdown of the truck near Mansfield.

Jack Eaterling was accepted as a new member. Kenneth Brooks, a former member, was a guest.

The post will hold a balloon dance Saturday night and the sandwich bar will be open. Next meeting will be Monday evening.

Midland Man Named In District Lions Post

Wain is a charter member of the Midland club, which was founded in 1947. He has served the club as president, vice president, director and as secretary the last three years.

He is also executive director of the Midland Area Charities which is affiliated with the United Funds of Beaver County. Mr. and Mrs. Wain reside on Beaver Ave., Midland.

Crash Kills Boy, 4

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Duane Anderson, 4, of near Hilliard was injured fatally Wednesday when the car he was in struck a tree on a road north of that Franklin County community.

City Crash Damages Wellsville Area Auto

A Wellsville district driver told police his auto was damaged in a hit-skip accident Wednesday at 3:17 p. m. on Pennsylvania Ave. at Virginia Ave., East End.

Lawrence Serafy, 25, of Wellsville R. D. 1 told Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes he was driving east on Pennsylvania Ave. when the other auto pulled out of Virginia Ave. and hit the right rear of his 1964 sedan.

The unidentified driver did not stop, Serafy said. He furnished police with a license number and description of the other car, a 1961 compact. Police traced the registration to a St. George St. resident, but said the car's owner was not at the wheel at the time of the crash.

Kemple Beats Massillon On Three-Hitter

East Liverpool's steady American Leaguers tacked up the District 4 Little League championship Wednesday night in hammering out a 7-1 victory over the Massillon Americans to remain eligible for the forthcoming state tournament.

Pitcher Kim Kemple scattered three hits to turn in the third straight impressive victory of Manager Laird Christen's squad in tournament competition at the Massillon diamond.

The team annexed the third District 4 championship for East Liverpool in the past few seasons.

Their next opponent will be the winner of a game between the District 3 and District 5 champions at Massillon on Thursday, Aug. 6. The victor here will be one of four teams advancing to the state finals.

Kemple, allowing a homer and two singles and issuing only one walk in going the distance, received solid support from his teammates in the District 4 title game.

Outside of the home run, young Kemple allowed no runner past first base, a feat that also marked Mike Smith's no-hit, 7-0 victory over North Canton earlier.

The second frame found Massey singling and scoring on Kinsey's double. Kinsey took third on the throw to home, and scored on a single by Kemple.

East Liverpool got two gift runs in the fifth. Klembara walked and March was safe on an error by Hammel, with Klembara taking third. Walker forced March at second, Massey was thrown out at first and when Fromholtz threw past home to play for Klembara, both Klembara and Walker scored.

In the sixth, Eckles singled and took second on an error by the Massillon centerfielder. McVay singled, scoring Eckles, and took second on the throw. Klembara then singled, scoring McVay.

Bernie Sends Bats, Central Waxes Hot

The interest and generosity of East Liverpool major leaguer Bernie Allen might have influenced the sudden hot streak of Central Service in the Colt League.

Only a week ago, Manager John Klinsky's Central squad was in last place, but has since put together six straight victories to earn a tie for second place.

Klinsky recalled today that just before the win streak began, Bernie sent three of his personal bats for the Central team to use. Since the Louisville Slugger bats arrived, Central has been wrecking the opposition. Allen plays second base for the Minnesota Twins.

Lilko Leads Publinx Play At Mansfield

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Two city firemen from adjacent towns were fighting like blazes for Ohio's 31st Public Links Golf championship.

Bob Lilko of Youngstown, a combination fireman and insurance agent, paced 122 survivors of the starting field of 252 into the third round of the pay-as-you-go classic today with a 4-under-par 69-69—138. Lilko, 37, was the only one in the tournament able to break par on both Possum Run and Twin Lakes courses where the first two rounds were played.

Steve Pevelko of Columbiana ended with a 156 and Richard Mahon of Columbiana posted a 158.

Scores of 153 or 11 over par were necessary to escape the cutoff for today's play. For Friday's final round in the 72-hole medal play classic, the field will be cut to the 60 low scorers of today's play. All of Friday's players will get a slice of the $1,500 merchandise prize fund.

Don Martin, part-time bartender from Mentor who led the first round with 67, soared 75 Wednesday for a 142 total where he was deadlocked with young Bill Santor of Youngstown.

New Brighton Nips Friendly

New Brighton posted a 4-2 triumph over Friendly Bowling - Merchants in the Beaver County League Wednesday at Patterson Field.

The visitors scored solo runs in the sixth and seventh innings to break a 2-2 tie.

Carnahan went the distance for Manager John Andrason's local squad, yielding 10 hits and four runs. The winning pitcher was Oldenburg, who gave up only five hits.

Tom Kraft of East Liverpool and Stancheck of New Brighton each hit triples, while the visitors also got two doubles. East Liverpool played errorless ball.

The locals will meet New Brighton again tonight at 6 at Crucible Field in Midland.

Rev. Vincent Werl, a Catholic priest in Pittsburgh, was a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers during their 1955 training sessions. He played guard.

Central Earns 2nd Place Tie

The victory was the sixth straight for Central, and earned the team a tie with South Side for second place.

South Side and Central will clash Monday night at 6 with the winner advancing to meet the Dentists in a best of three series for the right to meet the Realtors, who swept both the first and second half championships.

It was quite a game for Tice of Central, who hurled a seven-hitter and socked a grand slam homer. Marchbanks chipped in with a double. Lefty Jerry Vaughn was the losing pitcher.

Law Sought On Notice Of Team Moves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., proposed today that Congress enact legislation which would require a year's advance notice before a professional sports team could move from one city to another.

He is concerned, he said, about rumors "never denied," that the Milwaukee Braves of the National Baseball League, plan a move to Atlanta.

He also said that "the football Cardinals have been contemplating moving to Atlanta" and "the Kansas City A's also may move."

"I am concerned," Proxmire said in a statement, "because organized, professional sports obviously have a significant aspect. They have been given special legal privilege."

This privilege, he said, would be extended by a bill being considered by the Senate anti-trust subcommittee which would give professional sports "clear legislative exemption from the anti-trust law."

His amendment, he said, would require a year's advance notice of a move and would establish a hearing board to hear both sides of the case.

"But," he said, "at least the public's views would be publicly heard."

Myles Aids Wellsville In Win At Bergholz

Myles came on in the sixth in relief of Carl McDevitt with the score tied at 4-4. Myles fanned nine and gave up only three hits across the final three innings to gain the nod.

Walker To Pitch In Colt Tourney

Len Walker, 16-year-old right-hander whose best pitch is a fast ball, got the nod today as starting pitcher for the East Liverpool All-Stars when they launch Western Regional Colt League competition Friday at 5:30 p.m. at Colt Field.

Manager Dick Vocial's local stars will battle a squad from Eastern Ohio that reached the regionals by sweeping two games from the defending regional champions, Kanawha Valley from West Virginia.

East Liverpool is host for the three-day tourney, thus bypassing area, district and sectional tournaments.

Leading East Liverpool's opponent will be southpaw pitcher Terry Snively of Powhatan, who beat Kanawha Valley on a five-hitter last week. As a freshman, he played on Powhatan High School's state championship squad.

East Liverpool will tangle with Eastern Ohio at 5:30, following the opener between Washington, Pa., and Pittsburgh.

Winner of the tournament will be eligible for the next plateau of competition at Charlotte, N. C.

"I feel our pitching will be good, but hitting may be questionable," Manager Vocial commented. Last year, his city squad bowed out in a best of three game series with tomorrow's foe.

Vocial plans to start right-hander Bill Wright on Saturday, with Frank Quetot marked down for relief if needed on Friday.

Walker's battery mate will be Nick Marchbanks. In the infield will be Quetot, first base; Larry Ensinger, second; Mike Clutter, third and Joe Massey, shortstop.

Another standout for Eastern Ohio is John Bobek, pitcher-outfielder. He hurled a four-hitter against Kanawha Valley and in the tournament got a triple, double, and two singles in six trips.

Midland Tourney Set

The Midland fast-pitch softball tournament will be held Sunday through Aug. 8. Deadline for entering is Friday. Teams wishing to participate may contact Tony Verzilli, 26 Midland Ave., Midland or call 643-3729.

The second frame found Massey singling and scoring on Kinsey's double. Kinsey took third on the throw to home, and scored on a single by Kemple.

East Liverpool got two gift runs in the fifth. Klembara walked and March was safe on an error by Hammel, with Klembara taking third. Walker forced March at second, Massey was thrown out at first and when Fromholtz threw past home to play for Klembara, both Klembara and Walker scored.

In the sixth, Eckles singled and took second on an error by the Massillon centerfielder. McVay singled, scoring Eckles, and took second on the throw. Klembara then singled, scoring McVay.

Haverstone, who yielded eight hits in four innings and was relieved by Jefferson, was the losing pitcher.

Bernie Sends Bats, Central Waxes Hot

The interest and generosity of East Liverpool major leaguer Bernie Allen might have influenced the sudden hot streak of Central Service in the Colt League.

Only a week ago, Manager John Klinsky's Central squad was in last place, but has since put together six straight victories to earn a tie for second place.

Klinsky recalled today that just before the win streak began, Bernie sent three of his personal bats for the Central team to use. Since the Louisville Slugger bats arrived, Central has been wrecking the opposition. Allen plays second base for the Minnesota Twins.

Lilko Leads Publinx Play At Mansfield

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Two city firemen from adjacent towns were fighting like blazes for Ohio's 31st Public Links Golf championship.

Bob Lilko of Youngstown, a combination fireman and insurance agent, paced 122 survivors of the starting field of 252 into the third round of the pay-as-you-go classic today with a 4-under-par 69-69—138. Lilko, 37, was the only one in the tournament able to break par on both Possum Run and Twin Lakes courses where the first two rounds were played.

Steve Pevelko of Columbiana ended with a 156 and Richard Mahon of Columbiana posted a 158.

Scores of 153 or 11 over par were necessary to escape the cutoff for today's play. For Friday's final round in the 72-hole medal play classic, the field will be cut to the 60 low scorers of today's play. All of Friday's players will get a slice of the $1,500 merchandise prize fund.

Don Martin, part-time bartender from Mentor who led the first round with 67, soared 75 Wednesday for a 142 total where he was deadlocked with young Bill Santor of Youngstown.

New Brighton Nips Friendly

New Brighton posted a 4-2 triumph over Friendly Bowling - Merchants in the Beaver County League Wednesday at Patterson Field.

The visitors scored solo runs in the sixth and seventh innings to break a 2-2 tie.

Carnahan went the distance for Manager John Andrason's local squad, yielding 10 hits and four runs. The winning pitcher was Oldenburg, who gave up only five hits.

Tom Kraft of East Liverpool and Stancheck of New Brighton each hit triples, while the visitors also got two doubles. East Liverpool played errorless ball.

The locals will meet New Brighton again tonight at 6 at Crucible Field in Midland.

Rev. Vincent Werl, a Catholic priest in Pittsburgh, was a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers during their 1955 training sessions. He played guard.

Central Earns 2nd Place Tie

Central Service, hottest team in the Colt League, clinched a share of second place Wednesday in rolling over Riverview Florists, 14-2.

The victory was the sixth straight for Central, and earned the team a tie with South Side for second place.

South Side and Central will clash Monday night at 6 with the winner advancing to meet the Dentists in a best of three series for the right to meet the Realtors, who swept both the first and second half championships.

It was quite a game for Tice of Central, who hurled a seven-hitter and socked a grand slam homer. Marchbanks chipped in with a double. Lefty Jerry Vaughn was the losing pitcher.

Law Sought On Notice Of Team Moves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., proposed today that Congress enact legislation which would require a year's advance notice before a professional sports team could move from one city to another.

He is concerned, he said, about rumors "never denied," that the Milwaukee Braves of the National Baseball League, plan a move to Atlanta.

He also said that "the football Cardinals have been contemplating moving to Atlanta" and "the Kansas City A's also may move."

"I am concerned," Proxmire said in a statement, "because organized, professional sports obviously have a significant aspect. They have been given special legal privilege."

This privilege, he said, would be extended by a bill being considered by the Senate anti-trust subcommittee which would give professional sports "clear legislative exemption from the anti-trust law."

His amendment, he said, would require a year's advance notice of a move and would establish a hearing board to hear both sides of the case.

"But," he said, "at least the public's views would be publicly heard."

Myles Aids Wellsville In Win At Bergholz

Myles came on in the sixth in relief of Carl McDevitt with the score tied at 4-4. Myles fanned nine and gave up only three hits across the final three innings to gain the nod.

Walker To Pitch In Colt Tourney

Len Walker, 16-year-old right-hander whose best pitch is a fast ball, got the nod today as starting pitcher for the East Liverpool All-Stars when they launch Western Regional Colt League competition Friday at 5:30 p.m. at Colt Field.

Manager Dick Vocial's local stars will battle a squad from Eastern Ohio that reached the regionals by sweeping two games from the defending regional champions, Kanawha Valley from West Virginia.

East Liverpool is host for the three-day tourney, thus bypassing area, district and sectional tournaments.

Leading East Liverpool's opponent will be southpaw pitcher Terry Snively of Powhatan, who beat Kanawha Valley on a five-hitter last week. As a freshman, he played on Powhatan High School's state championship squad.

East Liverpool will tangle with Eastern Ohio at 5:30, following the opener between Washington, Pa., and Pittsburgh.

Winner of the tournament will be eligible for the next plateau of competition at Charlotte, N. C.

"I feel our pitching will be good, but hitting may be questionable," Manager Vocial commented. Last year, his city squad bowed out in a best of three game series with tomorrow's foe.

Vocial plans to start right-hander Bill Wright on Saturday, with Frank Quetot marked down for relief if needed on Friday.

Walker's battery mate will be Nick Marchbanks. In the infield will be Quetot, first base; Larry Ensinger, second; Mike Clutter, third and Joe Massey, shortstop.

Another standout for Eastern Ohio is John Bobek, pitcher-outfielder. He hurled a four-hitter against Kanawha Valley and in the tournament got a triple, double, and two singles in six trips.

Midland Tourney Set

The Midland fast-pitch softball tournament will be held Sunday through Aug. 8. Deadline for entering is Friday. Teams wishing to participate may contact Tony Verzilli, 26 Midland Ave., Midland or call 643-3729.

Willie's A Hero

Giants Advance On Phillies With McCovey Double

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

You're Dennis Bennett, the Philadelphia Phillies' hard - throwing young left-hander. Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco's slugging first baseman is at bat.

Bennett fanned Cepeda in the second inning of Wednesday night's 6-3 Giants' victory over Philadelphia and it led to Willie McCovey. For the Phillies, that meant nothing but trouble.

McCovey looked like the same old .203 hitter striking out in the sixth but in the eighth, his two-out double scored Willie Mays with the tying run as the Giants pulled even at 3-3.

Two innings later the Giants had loaded the bases against Phillie relief ace Jack Baldschun. McCovey worked the count full and then rapped a two-run single up the middle putting the Giants on top to stay.

Sharing the hero - roles with McCovey were Juan Marichal, whose four-hitter throttled the Phillies, and Jim Ray Hart, who belted a pair of solo homers to balance circuits by Richie Allen and Ruben Amaro in the early innings.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh beat Houston 5-2, St. Louis whipped Chicago 9-1 and Milwaukee turned back Cincinnati 6-2. New York and Los Angeles were rained out.

"You never know about this game," said Dark after McCovey's hits bailed the Giants out and moved San Francisco back within a half-game of the Phillies.

For Marichal, the league's second 15-game winner, it was a strong performance. He retired the last 19 men he faced and didn't allow a hit after the fourth inning.

Roberto Clemente, the NL's leading hitter, raised his average to .345 with two hits and drove in a pair of runs in the Pirates' victory. Bob Friend went the distance for his ninth win in 19 decisions and his batterymate, Jim Pagliaroni, belted a home run.

Houston's Dick Farrell, who hasn't won in six weeks, lost his seventh against 10 victories.

Farrell became the major leagues' first 10-game winner June 14 and has failed to win in 10 starts since then.

St. Louis sent 12 batters up in a seven-run seventh inning to rout the Cubs. The splurge came against Lew Burdette, Bobby Shantz and Lindy McDaniel, all former Cardinals.

Curt Simmons didn't allow a hit for 5 1-3 innings and picked up his 11th victory as the Cardinals won their fifth straight.

The Braves jumped on Joe Nuxhall for five quick runs in the first inning and that was all Tony Cloninger needed to coast to his 10th victory. Joe Torre's two-run double was the key hit in the big inning.

Cage Clinic Set For 2 Weeks At Thompson Park

Sessions are slated from 9 a. m. to noon on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Chan said shooting, dribbling and passing will be emphasized. He and varsity football coach Bob McNea will be the supervisors.

Chan asked boys up to 13 years to report between 9 and 10:30 and those 14-18 to report between 10:30 and noon. Boys who have them should bring their rubber basketballs for the drills, he said.

Meanwhile, tennis instruction is continuing each afternoon at the park from 3:30 to 5 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. About 200 persons have been instructed by Chan in tennis fundamentals over a three-week period.

LA Buttoned Up By Bouton In 5-0 Win For Yankees

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Bouton, who made baseball news last winter by demanding a 100 per cent pay raise — and was refused — continues his mastery of the pesky Los Angeles Angels.

Bouton, the New York Yankees' determined pre-season holdout, stopped Los Angeles 5-0 on four hits Wednesday night, extending his scoreless inning string over the Angels to 37.

The victory was Bouton's 11th against eight defeats, making him the second biggest winner for the American League leaders. Whitey Ford is the biggest with 12.

Bouton, remaining at home in New Jersey, wanted a 100 per cent increase in salary to $20,000 for his 21-7 performance in 1963. New York offered a top figure of $18,000.

Then, General Manager Ralph Houk issued Bouton an ultimatum: Either he report to spring training camp or have $100 per day lifted from his pay.

All of the hits off him Wednesday night were singles and he let only one Angel past first base.

Elsewhere in the AL, Baltimore outlasted Minnesota 4-3, Detroit nipped Chicago 3-2, Boston edged Kansas City 3-2 and Washington downed Cleveland 4-1 in 12 innings.

The Yankees grabbed a 3-0 lead against starter Bo Belinsky, with two runs scoring in the second on Jim Fregosi's two-base throwing error and Clete Boyer's sacrifice fly and another coming home on Mickey Mantle's single in the third. Elston Howard drove in the last two with a bases-loaded single in the seventh.

The Orioles remained one game behind the Yankees in the AL race. Homers by Sam Bowens, with one on in the third, and Norm Siebern, none on in the seventh, supported clutch relief pitching by Harvey Haddix and Stu Miller. Harmon Killebrew slammed his 35th homer, a two-run blast, in the fourth.

Detroit came from behind on Gates Brown's eighth-inning two-run homer off Frank Baumann, who replaced starter Ray Herbert after Al Kaline singled with one out. Until that inning, Herbert had a four-hitter. Norm Cash homered for the Tigers in the seventh while Gerry McNertney connected for Chicago in the top of the inning.

Don Lock drove in all of the Senators' runs in their 12-inning victory. He homered in the sixth, then crashed a three-run blast off Gary Bell in the 12th. The Indians scored in the second when Chico Salmon walked, stole second and came home on Woody Held's single.

Two errors helped the Red Sox defeat the Athletics. Ed Bressoud walked in the ninth and raced to third as pitcher Diego Segui threw wildly trying to pick him off first. He then scooted home with the winning run as shortstop Bert Campaneris fumbled Bob Tillman's grounder.

Jim Gentile clouted a two-run homer for the A's in the fifth, and Carl Yastrzemski tied the game with a homer in the Boston eighth.

Willie's A Hero

Giants Advance On Phillies With McCovey Double

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

You're Dennis Bennett, the Philadelphia Phillies' hard - throwing young left-hander. Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco's slugging first baseman is at bat.

Bennett fanned Cepeda in the second inning of Wednesday night's 6-3 Giants' victory over Philadelphia and it led to Willie McCovey. For the Phillies, that meant nothing but trouble.

Cepeda wrenched his right shoulder chasing Bennett's pitches and had to leave the game in the top of the sixth inning. Giant Manager Alvin Dark inserted McCovey, who's been fighting a season-long slump and the move paid off handsomely.

McCovey looked like the same old .203 hitter striking out in the sixth but in the eighth, his two-out double scored Willie Mays with the tying run as the Giants pulled even at 3-3.

Two innings later the Giants had loaded the bases against Phillie relief ace Jack Baldschun. McCovey worked the count full and then rapped a two-run single up the middle putting the Giants on top to stay.

Sharing the hero - roles with McCovey were Juan Marichal, whose four-hitter throttled the Phillies, and Jim Ray Hart, who belted a pair of solo homers to balance circuits by Richie Allen and Ruben Amaro in the early innings.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh beat Houston 5-2, St. Louis whipped Chicago 9-1 and Milwaukee turned back Cincinnati 6-2. New York and Los Angeles were rained out.

"You never know about this game," said Dark after McCovey's hits bailed the Giants out and moved San Francisco back within a half-game of the Phillies.

For Marichal, the league's second 15-game winner, it was a strong performance. He retired the last 19 men he faced and didn't allow a hit after the fourth inning.

Roberto Clemente, the NL's leading hitter, raised his average to .345 with two hits and drove in a pair of runs in the Pirates' victory. Bob Friend went the distance for his ninth win in 19 decisions and his batterymate, Jim Pagliaroni, belted a home run.

Houston's Dick Farrell, who hasn't won in six weeks, lost his seventh against 10 victories.

Farrell became the major leagues' first 10-game winner June 14 and has failed to win in 10 starts since then.

St. Louis sent 12 batters up in a seven-run seventh inning to rout the Cubs. The splurge came against Lew Burdette, Bobby Shantz and Lindy McDaniel, all former Cardinals.

Curt Simmons didn't allow a hit for 5 1-3 innings and picked up his 11th victory as the Cardinals won their fifth straight.

The Braves jumped on Joe Nuxhall for five quick runs in the first inning and that was all Tony Cloninger needed to coast to his 10th victory. Joe Torre's two-run double was the key hit in the big inning.

Chico Ruiz, brought up from San Diego last week, drove in both Reds' runs with a single and a double.

Cage Clinic Set For 2 Weeks At Thompson Park

Sessions are slated from 9 a. m. to noon on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Chan said shooting, dribbling and passing will be emphasized. He and varsity football coach Bob McNea will be the supervisors.

Chan asked boys up to 13 years to report between 9 and 10:30 and those 14-18 to report between 10:30 and noon. Boys who have them should bring their rubber basketballs for the drills, he said.

Meanwhile, tennis instruction is continuing each afternoon at the park from 3:30 to 5 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. About 200 persons have been instructed by Chan in tennis fundamentals over a three-week period.

Orioles Edge Twins

LA Buttoned Up By Bouton In 5-0 Win For Yankees

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Bouton, who made baseball news last winter by demanding a 100 per cent pay raise — and was refused — continues his mastery of the pesky Los Angeles Angels.

Bouton, the New York Yankees' determined pre-season holdout, stopped Los Angeles 5-0 on four hits Wednesday night, extending his scoreless inning string over the Angels to 37.

The victory was Bouton's 11th against eight defeats, making him the second biggest winner for the American League leaders. Whitey Ford is the biggest with 12.

Bouton, remaining at home in New Jersey, wanted a 100 per cent increase in salary to $20,000 for his 21-7 performance in 1963. New York offered a top figure of $18,000.

Then, General Manager Ralph Houk issued Bouton an ultimatum: Either he report to spring training camp or have $100 per day lifted from his pay.

Finding no other way out, Bouton gave in.

All of the hits off him Wednesday night were singles and he let only one Angel past first base.

Elsewhere in the AL, Baltimore outlasted Minnesota 4-3, Detroit nipped Chicago 3-2, Boston edged Kansas City 3-2 and Washington downed Cleveland 4-1 in 12 innings.

The Yankees grabbed a 3-0 lead against starter Bo Belinsky, with two runs scoring in the second on Jim Fregosi's two-base throwing error and Clete Boyer's sacrifice fly and another coming home on Mickey Mantle's single in the third. Elston Howard drove in the last two with a bases-loaded single in the seventh.

The Orioles remained one game behind the Yankees in the AL race. Homers by Sam Bowens, with one on in the third, and Norm Siebern, none on in the seventh, supported clutch relief pitching by Harvey Haddix and Stu Miller. Harmon Killebrew slammed his 35th homer, a two-run blast, in the fourth.

Detroit came from behind on Gates Brown's eighth-inning two-run homer off Frank Baumann, who replaced starter Ray Herbert after Al Kaline singled with one out. Until that inning, Herbert had a four-hitter. Norm Cash homered for the Tigers in the seventh while Gerry McNertney connected for Chicago in the top of the inning.

Don Lock drove in all of the Senators' runs in their 12-inning victory. He homered in the sixth, then crashed a three-run blast off Gary Bell in the 12th. The Indians scored in the second when Chico Salmon walked, stole second and came home on Woody Held's single.

Two errors helped the Red Sox defeat the Athletics. Ed Bressoud walked in the ninth and raced to third as pitcher Diego Segui threw wildly trying to pick him off first. He then scooted home with the winning run as shortstop Bert Campaneris fumbled Bob Tillman's grounder.

Jim Gentile clouted a two-run homer for the A's in the fifth, and Carl Yastrzemski tied the game with a homer in the Boston eighth.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Ladies, you know those frozen fish sticks we buy once in a while?

It tells you to put them on a piece of foil or in a pan and cook them.

Don't! Save a piece of foil you have used for something else, and washed and set aside.

I always put these extra pieces of foil back in my oven. I have the gas-type with a pilot light so that it will dry them.

Another thing about keeping these extra pieces of foil in your oven is that you remember to use them. . . .

Now, back to the fish sticks . . . lay your fish sticks on this piece of crumpled foil (that means it's wadded, crooked, all squashed up and then smoothed out).

Do you know that your fish sticks will get brown on the bottom the SAME time they do on the top! They can be turned over with the flip of a fork, never stick, never are gooey on one side and brown on the other, and it's absolutely fantabulous.

Try it.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For a number of years I have taken three special pills each day.

It seemed difficult at first to remember whether or not I had taken one after each meal.

So I got the idea of taking out three daily pills, swallow one and laying the other two by the bottle and the count was easy.

Now, I must also use eyedrops three times a day. I use a small slip of paper (one inch by three inches) and write 1—2—3 on it. After using the drops, I move the little bottle up onto the next number and, again, I can keep track.

IT HELPS!

E.C.G.

-:-

Your idea is good but be SURE to keep your medicine out of the reach of children. And when it comes to moving medicine on a slip of paper, why not tear off the ONE when you get the first procedure done and throw it away? Much safer. . . .

Just trying to save a life . . . please understand.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For those who enjoy showing movies or slides in their homes. . . .we have found a place to store the screen between showings:

At the end of the room we hung a large framed picture and attached the screen to the back. By reversing the picture we are ready to start showing off our movies and slides.

DEAR HELOISE: When you lose a screw from your glasses and the temple piece comes off, don't panic.

Just isert a round tooth pick in the screw hole and break off the toothpick.

Serves in an emergency until you can find the lost screw or have it replaced.

JOHN C. GRAVES, OD.

DEAR HELOISE: Who said husbands are not helpful around the house?

For months I had struggled trying to iron my daughter's tiny clothes with an average size iron. As every mother knows, when ironing one part of a child's clothes, some part of the iron is always pressing awful wrinkles into another part!

My husband watched me struggling with these tiny clothes and remembered that we had a travel iron in storage. The little iron is perfect as it goes right into those hard to-get-at places.

Woman Sues Utility For Lack Of Service

LISBON — Mrs. Mary Abrams filed suit for $10,000 damages Wednesday in Common Pleas Court against the Columbia Gas Co. at Columbus, claiming the utility removed its main transmission line without notifying her with the result she has had no natural gas service since April 1.

Her petition says she spent over $1,400 to install a private gas line to her property on Millport Rd. in Wayne Township in August 1954 after arranging for service, tapping the main line.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Ladies, you know those frozen fish sticks we buy once in a while?

It tells you to put them on a piece of foil or in a pan and cook them.

Don't! Save a piece of foil you have used for something else, and washed and set aside.

I always put these extra pieces of foil back in my oven. I have the gas-type with a pilot light so that it will dry them.

Another thing about keeping these extra pieces of foil in your oven is that you remember to use them. . . .

Now, back to the fish sticks . . . lay your fish sticks on this piece of crumpled foil (that means it's wadded, crooked, all squashed up and then smoothed out).

Do you know that your fish sticks will get brown on the bottom the SAME time they do on the top! They can be turned over with the flip of a fork, never stick, never are gooey on one side and brown on the other, and it's absolutely fantabulous.

Try it.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For a number of years I have taken three special pills each day.

It seemed difficult at first to remember whether or not I had taken one after each meal.

So I got the idea of taking out three daily pills, swallow one and laying the other two by the bottle and the count was easy.

Now, I must also use eyedrops three times a day. I use a small slip of paper (one inch by three inches) and write 1—2—3 on it. After using the drops, I move the little bottle up onto the next number and, again, I can keep track.

IT HELPS!

E.C.G.

-:-

Your idea is good but be SURE to keep your medicine out of the reach of children. And when it comes to moving medicine on a slip of paper, why not tear off the ONE when you get the first procedure done and throw it away? Much safer. . . .

Just trying to save a life . . . please understand.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For those who enjoy showing movies or slides in their homes. . . .we have found a place to store the screen between showings:

At the end of the room we hung a large framed picture and attached the screen to the back. By reversing the picture we are ready to start showing off our movies and slides.

DEAR HELOISE: When you lose a screw from your glasses and the temple piece comes off, don't panic.

Just isert a round tooth pick in the screw hole and break off the toothpick.

Serves in an emergency until you can find the lost screw or have it replaced.

JOHN C. GRAVES, OD.

DEAR HELOISE: Who said husbands are not helpful around the house?

For months I had struggled trying to iron my daughter's tiny clothes with an average size iron. As every mother knows, when ironing one part of a child's clothes, some part of the iron is always pressing awful wrinkles into another part!

My husband watched me struggling with these tiny clothes and remembered that we had a travel iron in storage. The little iron is perfect as it goes right into those hard to-get-at places.

LONDON (AP) — The House of Commons sat all night for its longest session of this Parliament. The session lasted 18 hours and 26 minutes, four minutes short of the longest sitting in the past 10 years. Only 12 members were still in the House when it adjourned at 8:40 a.m.

The debate officially was on what to do with public funds set up by George III in 1787. By tradition it is the one occasion when members can talk on any subject they wish.

Woman Sues Utility For Lack Of Service

LISBON — Mrs. Mary Abrams filed suit for $10,000 damages Wednesday in Common Pleas Court against the Columbia Gas Co. at Columbus, claiming the utility removed its main transmission line without notifying her with the result she has had no natural gas service since April 1.

Her petition says she spent over $1,400 to install a private gas line to her property on Millport Rd. in Wayne Township in August 1954 after arranging for service, tapping the main line.

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN loving memory of Thelma Edgar who passed away 6 years ago today.
No one hears the doors that open,
When they pass beyond our call,
Soft as the loosened petals of a rose,
One by one our loved ones fall.
But the memory of each loved one
Like the fragrance of the rose
God sent to linger with us
Till our life door shall close.
Her loved ones.

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN loving memory of Thelma Edgar who passed away 6 years ago today.
No one hears the doors that open,
When they pass beyond our call,
Soft as the loosened petals of a rose,
One by one our loved ones fall.
But the memory of each loved one
Like the fragrance of the rose
God sent to linger with us
Till our life door shall close.

A Junior Editors Quiz About STARS

QUESTION: Why was one of the constellations named Pegasus?

ANSWER: Pegasus was an imaginary winged horse in the myths of the ancient Greeks. According to their stories, he had been born from blood drops when Perseus cut off the Gorgon's head. The goddess Athena then tamed him with a golden bridle. Another legend, which we illustrate, tells how the ocean god Poseidon grew angry because the mountain called Helicon had grown so high and ordered Pegasus to stop it, which he did by striking it with his foot so the fountain Hippocrene gushed out. In the foreground, the graceful Muses, who help men create works of art, according to the Greek's, are holding a song contest. In still another legend, Athena gave the golden bridle to Bellerophon, who tamed Pegasus with it. But Bellerophon became too proud and the great winged horse threw him from his back and then soared up into the sky. There he was turned into a constellation of stars by Zeus, the most important of the Gods. We can still see the constellation Pegasus in the autumn evening sky.

FOR YOU TO DO: Check the shape of the constellation Pegasus in a star chart, which will tell you where to look for it. Then find it in the sky.

Battered Old Scow Will Be Last To Go

Once a tool designer, Sinclair quit the drawing board in favor of the island's open air. Now he is philosophically awaiting the time when there will be no one left on the island to serve.

Metropolitan Toronto is gradually razing the homes of island residents in order to turn it onto a park. In 1952, the first 638 leases were terminated and since then houses have been acquired in piece - meal fashion reducing the year-round population from 2,500 to 1,200.

Soon the island's three remaining businesses, a boat builder, a grocery and Island Freight, will have folded. The gruff owner of Island Freight will be the last to go. "After it's all gone," he says, "I'll still be there."

For an epicurean first course, serve marinated artichoke hearts (they come prepared in jars) with sliced smoked salmon. Have a pepper grinder, a cruet of olive oil and wedges of lemon on hand.
